INFORMANTS

DARGIS is a bail bondsman and represents HENRY CHARLES FERGER, ROBERT EUGENE DAVIS, and JEWEL CAZES. DARGIS advised that ROBERT EUGENE DAVIS cashed numerous stolen Nationwide money orders in order to finance a narcotic buying trip to Texas which is the same trip he was on when arrested by Federal authorities in El Paso, Texas, for possession of marijuana. This arrest of DAVIS apparently led to the arrest of CLARENCE GEORGE CAZES, husband of JEWEL CAZES, also in El Paso.

DARGIS stated he once handled a bond for HENRY FERGER and BILLY HOUSE, who were arrested for possession of burglary tools. HOUSE may be involved in the theft of the Nationwide money orders, although he has not seen him lately.

FERGER failed to appear in Jefferson Parish court on May 23, 1967. He is FERGER's bondsman for this arrest. FERGER subsequently appeared on June 1, 1967. DARGIS stated that in contacting RITA ALEXANDER regarding FERGER's whereabouts he was told by her that FERGER was "out of town." FERGER also told him he was out of town. DARGIS stated that FERGER has been pressed for money to cover both his bond and his attorneys fees prior to 5/23/67. However, following his appearance on 6/1/67, FERGER was able to pay out approximately five thousand dollars in bonds and attorney's fees. DARGIS further advised that JEWEL CAZES has contacted him and indicated that she is not hiding following the appearance of FBI Agents at her house a week ago, because she expects to be arrested for cashing money orders. She has already contacted her Attorney, G. WRAY GILL, and been briefed on what to say. DARGIS stated he will surrender CAZES, whom he states is a prostitute, if and when a warrant is issued.
