Re: Suggested Language on Availability of Selected Documents from Garrison and Wegmann Collections

Susan -

Upon further reflection, I thought the rather generic language suggested below would suffice for the advisory. There is no detail, but all reporters will be advised that they have three different places to get selected documents that they can assume will be of interest to them. Let me know what you think. Thanks.

Copies of selected documents from both the Garrison and Wegmann collections will be available at College Park, through the National Archives Press and Public Affairs Office, and the Assassination Records Review Board at 600 E St., NW, Washington, DC.
