Note: Paul Massing, a former Soviet espionage agent who operated in Europe in the early 1930's and who defected from the Soviets in 1937, and who is presently an informant of this Bureau, advised that Jean Liebermann was one of his espionage couriers in Europe while he operated as an espionage agent in the early 1930's. Jean Liebermann was interviewed by Bureau Agents, at which time she denied any participation in espionage activity both here in the United States and Europe. Her husband, Salomon Liebermann, was interviewed and he also denied any participation in espionage activity. Our investigation has failed to indicate that they are actively engaged in espionage activity in the United States; however, it has proven that they are actively engaged in Communist activity in the San Francisco area. For the above reason, the character of this case is being changed. In the future this case will be supervised by the Internal Security Section.
