D. Political Data

1. Party membership.

2. Party functions.

3. Societies.

4. Labor unions.

5. Degree of political conviction and indoctrination: cite evidence.

(LITANKL-9) said he was certain that AZCUE is not a Communist, not a CP member. (L-9) repeated that AZCUE is an implacable foe of "the Pentagon and the ruling circles in the US" but has a high regard for the American people. (L-9) thinks AZCUE is a loyal Fidelista who would never knowingly cooperate with the Americans. (Memo for the Records- Meeting with (L-9) 4 Nov 1963).

According to AMKNOB, AZCUE admitted that he has been a Communist for many years.

6. Other political data.

8. Special duties: description. By whom assigned? By whom directly supervised? BI data.

9. Superiors: degree of intimacy. According to (L-9) AZCUE was called in about Sept 66 by Osmani CIENFUEGOS and almost fired from his job. Celia SANCHEZ was also critical of AZCUE. AZCUE who had been given the responsibility of the Pavillion at the EXPO 67 in Montreal had apparently failed miserably in fulfilling his job. CIENFUEGOS, who considered the the EXPO 67 affair a very very important event told AZCUE he ~~had abandoned the project and done nothing.~~
10. ~~had "abandoned" the project and done nothing.~~ AZCUE was at the point of being fired when he produced a letter he had written to a government organization which asked for assistance and it had not been forthcoming. This letter apparently "saved" AZCUE from being summarily fired from his post but it did not stop CIENFUEGOS from relieving AZCUE of his responsibilities re EXPO 67. This run-in with CIENFUEGOS has made AZCUE a very bitter man and he wants to get out of Cuba as soon as possible. His present plans are to leave Cuba for Mexico around the end of the year. AZCUE plans to use a bad vertebrae as "cover" to get to Mexico. (Memo for Reports- (LITAMIL-9) 15 November 66).

Intelligence Affiliation

Elena Garro de PAZ, Mexican writer reported that Victor GALAN, the pro-Cuban journalist, told her that AZCUE was a Spanish Cuban who had fought for a while in the Spanish Civil War, at which time he was also, by his own admission, a French intelligence agent. Because of ill health, he left the war in Spain and went to Mexico, where he worked for a while for President Lazaro CARDENAS.
(Encl A-727 from Mexico, 9 January 66).

AZCUE was involved in alleged espionage in Mexico for the Cuban Government in 1961. (DBF-97388, 19 December 61).

When AZCUE was Cuban Consul in Mexico, he was the contact between the Cuban Embassy and student groups, especially student groups from Nicaragua, Guatemala and the Dominican Republic who were in exile in Mexico and against whose governments the Cuban Embassy carried out a programme of propaganda and subversion. (OEL-25587, 10 May 60).

20. Mistresses or lovers: times and places of meeting; BI data.

21. Personal friends: times and places of meeting; BI data.
AZCUE and (LITAMIL-3) are intimate friends.

22. Persons who visit Subject at residence: times, BI data.
Lee Harvey Oswald was probably in contact with AZCUE during the period 28 September-30 October 1963 when the latter was Cuban Consul. It is surmised that the reference in Oswald's 9 November letter to a person who had since been replaced must refer to AZCUE, who left Mexico for Cuba on a permanent transfer on 18 November 1963, four days before the assassination. Reportedly, AZCUE told AMKNOB-1 on 13 August that he was expecting a friend to replace him in Mexico and that he was going to Cuba to work for the Cuban peasant housing program. WAVE-9457, 21 Dec 63; XAAZ-22781, 17 Sep 64.

G. Psychological Assessment

1. Appearance, Habits and Mannerisms

a. Appearance

1) Describe his personal appearance, in terms of over-all impression and attention to details. Is he well-groomed, neat, fussy, prissy, conventional, individualistic? Consider attention to and care of clothing; general grooming, including attention to hair, nails, general cleanliness, etc.

2) Describe his ordinary style of dress. Is it conventional for his culture, or extreme or unique? Is it usually appropriate or inappropriate for particular occasions? Is he fashionable, overconscious, or inattentive to his own dress?

- 3) Describe his customary surroundings (home, room, office, "shop," etc.). Are they neat, organized, tasteful, sloppy, inviting, business-like, offensive, "lived-in," stodgy?

b. Expressiveness

- 1) How expressive is he? What kind of gestures, or facial mannerisms, or verbal expressions does he use characteristically? How frequently and spontaneously does he use them? Are they effective, habitual, contrived, natural, annoying?

- 5) Describe his eye movement patterns, and the circumstances associated with them. Does he tend to maintain direct eye contact when talking? Does he maintain eye contact, close his eyes, or look away while thinking, or reflecting, or reminiscing?

c. Smoking, Drinking, and Eating.

- 1) Describe his smoking behavior: what he smokes, how frequently, and the circumstances which affect his rate or pattern of smoking.

- 2) Describe his drinking behavior: what he likes, how much and how often he drinks under "ordinary circumstances" (and how he would define "ordinary circumstances"), what his normal drinking pattern and pace is, and how he ordinarily reacts or behaves when drinking heavily, or too much.

2) What kinds of concerns or complaints does he have about health, fatigue, or ailments, and how often or how regularly?

3) What is the relation between his "health complaints" and his apparent "true state" of health? Is he a chronic complainer, or preoccupied with health and fitness? Is he normally aware of his "true" condition? Is he stoic, and likely to suffer silently even when complaints might be considered "reasonable?"

4) Describe his normal activity level. Is he physically active, or passive? Is he quick acting, or slow; "nervous;" easily fatigued; untiring; always on the go?

2. Skills

- a. What specific skills or abilities does he possess? Consider mechanical skills (such as building, repairing, handicrafts, mechanics, etc.); social skills (social effectiveness, entertainment skills, conversational abilities, organizing and "sparring" abilities, etc.); physical skills (including sports, outdoorsmanship, coordination skills); intellectual skills (writing, speaking, analyzing, theorizing, problem solving, etc.). Consider occupational history, hobbies and part time activities as well as present profession or work.

- b. Among his skills and abilities, what does he do particularly well? How were these skills achieved and developed ("naturally," self taught, trained, diligent effort)?

3. Interpersonal Behavior

a. Describe his typical social behavior: is he natural, comfortable, warm, affable, shy, passive, guarded, aggressive, stereotyped, patronizing? Is he "naturally" social, or does he depend on prepared conversation, games, "business" or other props? Does he meet people easily, and get along well? Does he dominate conversations, initiate topics, "go along" with discussions, or hold back? Consider:

- 1) His behavior when he is with one other person.
- 2) His behavior when he is part of a group.
- 3) His behavior with respect to different groups or people: peers, subordinates, superiors.
- 4) His behavior toward members of the opposite sex.

-33-

b. How do others characterize him? Is he regarded as outgoing, reserved, a lone wolf, warm, self conscious, cynical, depressed, critical, considerate, selfish, conforming, argumentative?

c. Describe his "physical contact" behavior, in typical social settings. Is he a back-slapper, hand holder, shoulder draper? How much does he use or depend on physical contact or props, for communication and support? Is he a finger stabber, a shoulder puncher, an elbow grabber, a table leaner?

d. What especially strong opinions does he hold? How firm are his convictions on controversial issues?

SECRET

e. Where possible, describe his handling of the following situations, using illustrative anecdotes:

1) Being introduced to a strange person.

2) Deciding where and what to eat; or what to do for entertainment.

3) Organizing his day's work.

f. Give a summary estimate of his poise and self assurance.

g. Give a summary evaluation of his judgement, discretion and maturity.

4. Family Orientation

a. Describe his relationship with his immediate family. What is the relative importance of his family vs. his job, or other activities: How much does he participate in family activities? Does he play with his children; take his wife to parties? Does he demonstrate affection? How and how freely? Does his family seem to be a source of pride, a responsibility, a basis of support and reassurance, a burden?

b. What kind of position does he occupy in the family? Is he autocratic and domineering; firmly in control; deferrent; subservient to his wife; "anything for the kids"; overly permissive, lax, passive?

c. What are his personal pursuits and sources of satisfaction? Consider his hobbies, avocations, amateur interests, including books, art, chess, stamp collecting; his attitude toward sports and exercise, and the extent of his participation or spectator interest. What special interests or skills does he have in these areas; how much time does he devote to them, and under what circumstances?

d. Does he have any pet peeves, complaints or grievances?

e. Does he believe in any particular political, religious or social system or idea or ideal? To what extent: is he dogmatic, fanatical, a "true believer," passive, uncritical, sophisticated, naive, "take it for granted?" Cite evidence by direct quotes, or by paraphrases, where possible. Does he have any special training in these matters?

f. Does he indicate sufficient receptivity to new ideas, to tolerate changes in his beliefs? In what ways is he likely to be most susceptible to change?

g. Summarize what you consider to be his most prominent characteristics (assets and liabilities, susceptibilities, reactions, qualities of uniqueness, etc.) What three, or five, or ten words would describe him best?

-39-

- h. Discuss any difficulties involved in reviewing and assessing this Subject's behavior and personality. Consider apparent contradictions in behavior; wide variations, due to sources or differing situations; the extent to which he "fills out" as an individual; major areas or questions which seem unanswered or mysterious, etc.

- i. Compare or contrast him with the "typical" man of his society. In what ways does he typify his own group stereotype; or, in what ways is he markedly different from "the norm" of his group, his society, his culture or his clique?

SECRET

6. Personal Attributes

Circle one trait in each pair if it is generally characteristic of the subject. Use the "comments" column to indicate the degree to which the circled trait characterizes him (i.e., very much, or slightly), and for any qualification of the rating (for example, the behavior may vary on a given trait with different situations; or the rater may be reminded of related traits, etc.). If neither of the terms in a pair are appropriate, indicate "not applicable" or "not observed" under the "comments" column.
