Subject: "Bingo!" on Blackmer memo quote

The quote is accurate. It appears in a 9/1/77 memo by Blackmer summarizing a week-long series of interviews conducted with Garrison in New Orleans. Copy of memo attached to hardcopy of this e-mail, passage in question tagged and highlighted. My reading of the memo is that is confused to the extent that it isn't always clear what "voice" Blackmer is using... as in the quote that prompted the search, it's unclear whether Blackmer is stating his own opinion about a given issue or whether he is paraphrasing Garrison's beliefs. On a related note, while looking for the above memo I came across the also-attached reference to a file on Bannister held/generated by something called the [Louisiana] State Sovereignty Commission. Apparently, it was not considered to be of much value, but I pass it along in case either of you think we should try and procure it (supposedly it included material on the FPCC). A quick database search yielded nothing in the collection from this SSC.
