Subject: Michael Nurko's call

Michael Nurko made a friendly call asking whether there would be a response to their letter. I said that you were out of town, and I didn't know what the plan was. I said that he could consider my letter to Livingstone to be my personal reply, and that I believe that Tunheim will be sending out shortly a general letter (I was referring to the AARC letter, though I did not identify to whom the letter was being sent). Bottom line: I think that he, in a friendly way, would still like a response. I think that your letter to AARC could do the trick.
