Subject: Conversation with Ben Bradlee, Jr., of the Boston Globe

As a follow-up to my initial call to Steve Kurkjian and at his suggestion, I called Ben Bradlee, Jr., regarding whether or not he had any additional paper or photographic records from his 1981 JFK assassination medical evidence story, besides what he had donated to the JFK Library. Specifically, I asked him about any anatomical drawings or photographs that were used in interviews with Dallas medical witnesses. Bradlees' recollection was that he had given everything he had on the story to the JFK Library. If he kept anything, he does not know where it would be located. Bradlee said that he would check and if he found anything else, he would call me back. However, I would not count on him finding any additional records in his possession. I also called the other reporter who worked on the story, Nils Bruzilius. He is out of the office until Tuesday, March 25th. I will call him back to see if he is in possession of any records from the story.
