Subject: Gus Russo

Carol told me that she has no objection to our faxing the Peter Lawford file records to Russo today, but she wanted us to contact Steve Tilley to make sure that he would be making them available to the public immediately. I called Steve and left a detailed message. I assume he will call me back and say that the records are immediately available to those who ask for them. I'll let you know what he says when he calls. In the meantime, I checked in the SCIF and found that we did retain a clean copy of the two records that Russo has been interested in, along with that third record in which Herbert Miller instructs the FBI to drop the investigation. The copies could be better -- the typing is rather difficult to read in a few places, but decipherable, I think. As long as Steve says that he intends to make them available immediately, I would recommend that we fax to Gus the copies that we have and then, if Steve has better copies, he can request and receive them from Steve. What do you think?
