Subject: Re: Probe

Max, the Review Board staff is on top of things, and they sent out a copy of the article last week, along with a copy of a very effective letter from Tom Samoluk addressing a series of mistaken assumptions contained in the article. I thought the personal criticisms were inconsequential, and, like so much of the research that crowd generates, they drew inappropriate conclusions from the evidence they adduced. I appreciate your thoughtfulness, however, and I shall hope to see you either up here or down there at some point in the not-too-distant future. With best wishes, --Bill
