

NR_key_name: D18BE0652E6C0CF986256429002C979A

SendTo:

CopyTo:

DisplayBlindCopyTo:

BlindCopyTo: CN=Eileen Sullivan/O=ARRB

From: Robalini @ aol.com

DisplayFromDomain:

DisplayDate: 01/24/1997

DisplayDate_Time: 2:14:56 AM

ComposedDate:

ComposedDate_Time:

Subject: The Konformist: Mind Kontrol & Little Timmy McVeigh

NOTE: Either you requested to receive a subscription to this e-mail, or someone else recommended you to be placed on this list. If you are interested in a free subscription, please e-mail Robalini@aol.com with the subject: I NEED TO KONFORM. (Okay, you can use something else, but it's a cool catch phrase.) Please e-mail me back with subject: CANCEL KONFORMIST if you're not interested in receiving this. Thanks, Robert Sterling. I am back from a week break in San Jose, and I am ready for more abuse. The following comes from Alex Constantine, an investigative reporter that I think is on the elite level of Robert Parry, Jon Rappaport, and Ian Goddard (all in their unique way) for continually coming up with the best stuff. His most recent book is "Psychic Dictatorship in the USA", from Feral House. He has another book coming out soon from Feral House (Feralhouse@aol.com for details - Adam Parfrey, the owner of FH, is one hell of a guy.) Also, the excellent Conspiracy Nation newsletter, run by Brian Redman, has touched the same subject of MK at OK recently. I highly recommend all to read it, even if Mr. Redman, the hardest working man on the internet, sometimes bombards your mailbox with tons of utterly fascinating stuff. Write to bigred@shout.net for info. Subj: OK Bombing & Mind Control Date: 97-01-07 00:50:08 EST From: alex@mach1.directnet.com (Alex Constantine) > Mind Control & Timothy McVeigh's Rise from "Robotic" Soldier to Mad Bomber > By Alex Constantine >> The more we do to you, the less you seem > to believe we are doing it. > - Joseph Mengele >> The popular conception was spun by the press corps like a clay > urn: McVeigh, the volatile minute man, was so bitter after failing to make > the Army's "elite" Special Forces, so stuffed full of the froth of the > Turner Diaries, that he vented his rage on the Alfred Murrah Federal > Building in Oklahoma City. > But Captain Terry Guild, McVeigh's' former platoon leader, told > reporters that the failure to become a Green Beret left the Iraq War > veteran "upset. Not angry. Just very, very disappointed." In the Army, he > demonstrated a willingness to carry out orders, any orders. He trained on > his own time while other soldiers languished in their bunks or caroused at > the PX. As a civilian, Timothy McVeigh continued to dwell on the > military. In 1992 he took a job with Burns International Security Services > in Buffalo and was assigned to the security detail at Calspan, a Pentagon > contractor that conducts classified research in advanced aerospace > rocketry and electronic warfare. Al Salandra, a spokesman for Calspan, told > reporters that McVeigh was "a model employee." > "He was real different," Todd Regier, a plumber, told the Boston > Globe.. "Kind of cold. He was almost like a robot." > Within a few months, his manager planned on promoting McVeigh to > the supervisory level. But McVeigh's bitterness, once directed at the > military, "was becoming directed at a much larger, more ubiquitous enemy." > It was in Buffalo, as a civilian, that McVeigh's rage peaked. He > complained that federal

Body:

recstat:

DeliveryPriority: N

DeliveryReport: B

ReturnReceipt:

Categories: