

NR_key_name: 43DE5167ADAAAC862862564EC007DBE78
SendTo: sullivan@jfk-arrb.gov
CopyTo: DisplayBlindCopyTo: BlindCopyTo:
From: dadix@visi.com
DisplayFromDomain: DisplayDate: 08/07/1997
DisplayDate_Time: 5:45:47 PM
ComposedDate: ComposedDate_Time:
Subject: [Fwd: Reply]from alt.conspiracy.jfk 7 August,97; Time here:1745 cst

Rocky Clayton wrote:> I am at work and cannot go into everything I would> like, but will when time permits.>> Short version:>> I ran a shift in what we call "The Old Jail" here for over> two years. It is directly across from the school book> depository. It was right outside the window of my office.> jack Ruby's cell was also just outside my office door.> It wasn't a cell really. We used it for what we called> "the small holdover". You can put about twenty> inmates in it while waiting to go to court, be taken> back to their tank or whatever. This is where Ruby stayed.> My impression is that he was allowed to basically set up> light housekeeping during his stay in The Old Jail. I was told> he had unlimited visitation privileges and that Sheriff Decker> paid him an almost daily visit. I was told that Joe Campeisi came to> visit many times, also that his door was just left open most> of the time giving him free reign of the floor.>> I also worked at what we call "The Government Center Jail", for> a long time. There is a heavy duty boiler plate door on the> 7th. floor, (supervisor's floor), that I was told has tons of> records generated by local law enforcement on the assassination.> This door is locked. I was the fire warden in this jail and as> such had every key available to me. I could never find the key to> this door and the serial number normally on the large brass> tumbler had been ground off. I asked my Lieutenant about this.> That's when he told me what was supposed to be in there and> that only the sheriff and chief deputy had a key, because the records> were sealed until 2001 by uncle sugar.>> Can't prove any of that, but this is what is told around the> department.> I know one thing. You ain't gittin in 'nat door. I tried!>> Just a little to wet your appetite.>> Rocky Clayton, President> Dallas Sheriff's Union>> BTW. If you find anything I say interesting, feel free to post it> to your group.

Body:
recstat: DeliveryPriority: DeliveryReport: ReturnReceipt: Categories: