Vince,What contrast!"David Whipple, president of the association of retired intelligenceagents, Hamilton Brown, who holds the same position for retired SecretService agents, and Les Stanford for Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, werediligent in finding those long retired from their respective agencies."As if great effort was made by three different people to find thelong-retired agents so that Posner could communicate with them. Nodoubt he's now being careful after being busted by Gary Aguilar and others:"I am almost certain I merely relied on orig. docs, or the agents' originalinterviews and/ or testimony."Here's another example of his sleaziness:"The only Parkland doctors who still believe they saw a wound in the rearof the head, as well as seeing cerebellum, are Robert McClelland andCharles Crenshaw." [p312]The most important Parkland doctor of all -- the one who examined the woundclosely, the one who had the most qualifications, William Kemp Clark, MD,former Chief of Neurosurgery -- has never refuted his earlier opinion, notin "Case Closed," and not anywhere else. (I'm assuming such a refutationwould be published and celebrated by lone nutters.) Not long ago, hereconfirmed his earlier opinion in the presence of a researcher whose nameescapes me.By the way, Charles McClelland told me that JAMA put a lot of pressure onhim to change his mind and, since he would not budge, they claimed hebased his opinion of a shot from the front on the Zapruder film -- as ifwhat he saw in the trauma room had nothing to do with that opinion.
