The Board reviewed approximately 1650 CIA records at the two meetings in August, nearing completion of the review of the Sequestered Collection. CIA continues to provide documents for review and will soon send to the Review Board records from the working files (such as the Russ Holmes collection) in which they are requesting postponements. Though the review of all CIA records has not been completed by this date, there is still reason to be optimistic in assessing our chances of finishing the review of CIA records over the next month.
