Subject: The three newly discovered autopsy photos
I read the recent transcript of the Q&A regarding the three new autopsy photos, and sensed completely unnecessary evasion on the subject. It is clear that the Board is barred from actually releasing those photos, under the JFK Records Act exemption clause, but that is no bar to releasing DESCRIPTIONS of the photos. You could issue a brief press release indicating what each photo shows, the sort of description that appears in various inventories of the other autopsy photos. This should be done, and without further delay. It is a simple matter, and it is the right thing to do. Martin Shackelford
