

Project I: Warren Commission documents database

The ARRB has succeeded in releasing most of the Warren Commission documents which still remained classified. As of March of 1997, several hundred Warren Commission documents, as well as other relevant documents which are stored at the National Archives remain classified. The ARRB places a very high priority on getting all of the Warren Commission documents released.

ARRB Senior Analysts Brian Rosen and Joe Freeman have compiled a handwritten list of all the aforementioned documents which remain for the ARRB to process. From this list, we want to create a database which will both provide an easy reference guide to these documents, and allow us to sort, by agency, which agencies they need to be referred to.

You will enter the following fields in the database (the database will look something like the attached sheet):

Box#
Record #
CD#
Equity
Copied by Agency
Copied for Agency
Comments

The information to be inputted is on the handwritten list. Mr. Rosen or I will be periodically checking with you to answer any questions you might have.
