

More JFK papers due

BOSTON -- The head of a board set up to release government documents relating to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy said Friday the fact-finding effort will debunk many conspiracy theories but probably spawn some new ones.

The Fresno Bee, March 25, 1995

John Tunheim, chairman of the Assassination Records Review Board, predicted that by the time the board completes its work in October 1997, more than 2 million documents relating to the assassination would be available for review at the National Archives, in addition to the 2 million already there.
