RE: Draft of final interpretive regulations

Attached is a draft of the final version of the interpretive regulations. The text of the regulations has been revised to reflect the Review Board's comments during their last visit. The supplementary information is new and geared to explaining the changes from the published proposed version, to describe the Review Board's process of taking public comment into account, and to describe the intent behind some of the provisions.

I am still revising the supplemental section and have not closely proofed it yet, but would appreciate any comments about the text as it stands now and about the regulations. If possible, I'd like to have your comments by Wednesday morning so we can send this to the Board for their review before the meeting next week. Thanks!
