On 12/28/62, GREEN advised he was not acquainted with anyone by the name of ALBERT MEADOWS, however, stated he knew that he had heard the name before and could not recall under what circumstances. He advised he was positive he had never had any sort of dealings with anyone by that name and would not know MEADOWS if he were to meet him in person. GREEN further advised he was not acquainted with anyone by the name of JANICE CHRISTAKIS and reiterated he could furnish no information whatsoever concerning CHRISTAKIS or MEADOWS.

On 12/31/62 H. L. KIRKPATRICK, Vice President and Cashier, East Dallas Bank and Trust Company, described president of the bank WARREN A. GILBERT, JT. as a "wheeler and dealer" who would do anything "for a dollar". KIRKPATRICK further stated an unknown gambler had been seen by KIRKPATRICK in conference with GILBERT every Friday and Monday, behind closed doors. KIRKPATRICK identified FRED MERRILL, a known Dallas gambler as a frequent visitor with GILBERT in the bank and further stated that subject MEADOWS is at the bank on an average of once a week. (The unknown gambler was subsequently identified by the Dallas Division as S. C. "CHICK" FLOURNOY.)

On February 27, 1963 the Washington Field Office furnished the following:

It was determined that Washington, D.C. telephone number DI 7-6646 is listed to Attorney JOHN J. NEALON, Number 1 Thomas Circle, Washington, D.C.

On January 16, 1963, SA C. DENMARK JOHNSON reviewed records of the Credit Bureau, Incorporated, Washington, D.C., at which time the following information was obtained regarding NEALON:

He is married to ELIZABETH ANN, resides at 7315 13th Street, Northwest, where he is buying a home. He has been in Washington, D.C., for a good number of years and is self-employed as an attorney. He is a graduate of George Washington University and passed the bar in 1953. Instant files failed to reflect any derogatory information regarding NEALON.

On February 7, 1963, JOHN J. NEALON, Attorney, Number 1 Thomas Circle, advised SA JOHNSON he met ED DRISCOLL during the previous summer through [redacted] an employee of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA). NEALON stated that (C) [redacted] had engaged him as an attorney for some personal matters and that apparently DRISCOLL was referred by [redacted] (C) to him, NEALON as a potential investor for oil fields that DRISCOLL was connected with. He stated he never actually met DRISCOLL but talked with him on the telephone on several occasions during which times DRISCOLL discussed the possibility of NEALON investing in DRISCOLL's oil business. He said DRISCOLL believed he, NEALON, had money to invest from clients he represented and that the oil investment was strictly a exploratory arrangement which would result in a tax write-off for the investor.

NEALON stated he received a long distance telephone call from DRISCOLL who was in New York and two or three other calls from him in Dallas. He stated he wrote to DRISCOLL on only one occasion and received a prospectus from DRISCOLL concerning the oil investment.

CONFIDENTIAL

NEALON stated on no occasion did DRISCOLL discuss anything other than investing in his oil business. He said subject's name is not familiar to him.

On February 19, 1963, [redacted] [redacted] [redacted] Arlington, Virginia, advised he is employed by CIA and met ED DRISCOLL in about July or August, 1962. He stated DRISCOLL was an Army buddy of another CIA employee with whom he, [redacted] was having lunch one day, during which lunch DRISCOLL was present. He stated DRISCOLL was seeking contacts with money to invest in an oil operation in Texas. He stated he had a prospectus from E. B. FLETCHER, Dallas, Texas, and that the arrangement was a 100 per cent gamble from an investment standpoint, but the investor could benefit from a tax write-off arrangement.

(C) [redacted] stated he gave DRISCOLL the name of JOHN NEALON as a contact because NEALON represents several individuals whom he thought might be interested in making an investment with DRISCOLL. He stated DRISCOLL never discussed anything other than the oil business while in his presence and that he received a telephone call from him from New York several weeks after meeting him to determine if he was interested in making an investment. He stated there have been no other contacts since that time.
