Mr. Wilmeth furnished the following information concerning Jack Kliment and Rimma Beliaeva Palangian.

Mr. Palangian is of Armenian extraction and was born and raised in Algiers as a French citizen. His native language is French. While living in Algiers, he heard and read propaganda indicating he could receive a full education if he went to Russia. Accordingly, when he was about 20 years of age, Mr. Palangian went to Russia. He stayed in Russia for about six or seven years. He attended a pedagogical school in a town quite a distance from Moscow. He does not recall the name of this town. He subsequently went back to live in Moscow and there worked for a press service. While so employed, he met the woman who is now his wife. stay in Russia, he became a Russian citizen. Palangian married his wife in Moscow. During this period in Moscow, Palangian had classes in the Russian language for the Moroccan Ambassador to Russia and other members of the Moroccan Embassy.

Wilmeth stated that Mr. Palangian and his wife decided to leave Russia and wanted to go to Morocco to find employment there. For a long time, he was unable to obtain an exit visa from Russia. Eventually through friends he was able to obtain an exit visa and a Soviet passport for the purpose of visiting Morocco. Mr. Palangian and his wife left Moscow by plane and the plane landed in Paris. Upon arriving in Paris, Palangian was arrested and accused of evading the French military service inasmuch as he had been a French citizen. He was placed in jail and subsequently put in the French military service and given a uniform. He remained in the French military service for about ten days or two weeks until the matter was ironed out.

Wilmeth stated that Mr. Palangian could not find a job in Paris as he was a Soviet citizen. Mr. Palangian became very discouraged and then attempted to return to Russia. According to the laws of Russia, he made application for re-entry into the Soviet Union but the Soviet Government could not give him a re-entrance permit. Wilmeth said that Palangian then found himself in the peculiar circumstance in France of not being able to return to the Soviet Union where he was a citizen and not being able to find employment in Paris.

Wilmeth said that Palangian then went on to Morocco, which had been his original destination. Through the Moroccan Ambassador to Russia, he got a job translating in the government service of Morocco. This job did not pay very much. It was in Morocco that Wilmeth was able to make contact with the Palangians and recruit them for employment at the UTA.

The Palangians, after making suitable arrangements to immigrate to the United States in Morocco, left that country by plane, traveling through Southern France where Mr. Palangian's mother lived and entering the United States at New York City.

The Palangians arrived in Arlington, Texas, in mid-September, 1967. Mr. Palangian is presently employed as an assistant instructor in the French and Russian languages in the university. Mrs. Palangian assists Wilmeth in his teaching of the Russian language.

Wilmeth explained that he is a retired officer of the U.S. Army and learned the Russian language while he was in the army.

Wilmeth stated he hopes to employ Mrs. Palangian in the near future.

Wilmeth stated that the ethnic background of Mr. Palangian is Armenian. Mrs. Palangian is Russian.

Wilmeth advised that the Palangians like living in the United States. They reside in Apartment #16 of the Plaza Summit Apartments on Summit Avenue in Arlington. Their apartment has one bedroom. They have no automobile. Neither of the Palangians can drive an automobile although both now have taken out beginners licenses. They plan to buy an automobile when they learn to drive.

As to the friends of the Palangians, Wilmeth stated that these consist of some third year students in the university and various persons with Russian background whom the Palangians have met in the Fort Worth and Dallas area. Among these friends are George De Mohrenschildt and Ilya Mamantov, both of whom reside in Dallas, Texas. They know other persons of Russian background who reside in Fort Worth.

Wilmeth stated that Mr. Palangian does not want to return to Russa, nor does his wife. Mr. Palangian is more reticent and retiring and a non-social type.
Mrs. Palangian is more of the social type and has a more gregarious nature. The Palangians drink a little beer but do not drink much whiskey. Mr. Palangian likes to play chess and spends a great deal of his time in study. He is working hard to improve his English.

As to his fluency in languages, Palangian, according to Wilmeth, is very fluent in all phases of the French language. His second best language, in which he has obtained excellent fluency in all phases, is the Russian language. He speaks, reads, writes and understands English very well although he does have an accent. He does not speak the Moroccan or Armenian languages. Wilmeth stated that Mrs. Palangian is primarily fluent in all phases of the Russian language; her second best language, in which she has attained excellent fluency in all phases, is the French language; and her third and much weaker language is English.

Wilmeth stated that since the arrival of the Palangians in Arlington, he has observed nothing about them which would indicate that they are interested in furthering the aims of the Russians or any foreign country. He believes them both to be very materialistic. He feels that they would like to settle in the United States. Neither has shown any interest whatsoever in communism and he does not believe them either to have ever been a member of the Communist Party.

Wilmeth said that Mr. Palangian has made the statement that if one wishes to get ahead in Russia, he should be a member of the Communist Party. He has also made the statement that in his opinion the top government officials of Russia are sincere in their beliefs in communism and in their desire to improve the lot of the Russian people. He has further stated, according to Wilmeth, that the bureaucrats below the top echelon are many times simply that, bureaucrats with a greater interest in their own personal welfare and materialistic positions than in the furthering of communism or in the welfare of the common people.

Wilmeth said that both the Palangians speak of remaining in the United States and obtaining their PhD degrees in language.

Wilmeth said that the information that he has furnished concerning the Palangians is from memory and is based upon letters he has received from the Palangians, conversations he has had with them since their arrival in the United States, and his own observations.

Mr. Wilmeth advised that the Palangians have planned to return to Europe in June, 1968, to visit with Mr. Palangian's mother in France.

Mr. Wilmeth furnished the following information concerning Jack Kliment and Rimma Beliaeva Palangian.

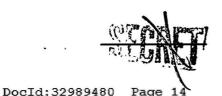

Mr. Palangian is of Armenian extraction and was born and raised in Algiers as a French citizen. His native language is French. While living in Algiers, he heard and read propaganda indicating he could receive a full education if he went to Russia. Accordingly, when he was about 20 years of age, Mr. Palangian went to Russia. He stayed in Russia for about six or seven years. He attended a pedagogical school in a town quite a distance from Moscow. He does not recall the name of this town. He subsequently went back to live in Moscow and there worked for a press service. While so employed, he met the woman who is now his wife. During his stay in Russia, he became a Russian citizen. Palangian married his wife in Moscow. During this period in Moscow, Palangian had classes in the Russian language for the Moroccan Ambassador to Russia and other members of the Moroccan Embassy.

Wilmeth stated that Mr. Palangian and his wife decided to leave Russia and wanted to go to Morocco to find employment there. For a long time, he was unable to obtain an exit visa from Russia. Eventually through friends he was able to obtain an exit visa and a Soviet passport for the purpose of visiting Morocco. Mr. Palangian and his wife left Moscow by plane and the plane landed in Paris. Upon arriving in Paris, Palangian was arrested and accused of evading the French military service inasmuch as he had been a French citizen. He was placed in jail and subsequently put in the French military service and given a uniform. He remained in the French military service for about ten days or two weeks until the matter was ironed out.

Wilmeth stated that Mr. Palangian could not find a job in Paris as he was a Soviet citizen. Mr. Palangian became very discouraged and then attempted to return to Russia. According to the laws of Russia, he made application for re-entry into the Soviet Union but the Soviet Government could not give him a re-entrance permit. Wilmeth said that Palangian then found himself in the peculiar circumstance in France of not being able to return to the Soviet Union where he was a citizen and not being able to find employment in Paris.

Wilmeth said that Palangian then went on to Morocco, which had been his original destination. Through the Moroccan Ambassador to Russia, he got a job translating in the government service of Morocco. This job did not pay very much. It was in Morocco that Wilmeth was able to make comtact with the Palangians and recruit them for employment at the UTA.

The Palangians, after making suitable arrangements to immigrate to the United States in Morocco, left that country by plane, traveling through Southern France where Mr. Palangian's mother lived and entering the United States at New York City.

The Palangians arrived in Arlington, Texas, in mid=September, 1967. Mr. Palangian is presently employed as an assistant instructor in the French and Russian languages in the university. Mrs. Palangian assists Wilmeth in his teaching of the Russian language.

Wilmeth explained that he is a retired officer of the U.S. Army and learned the Russian language while he was in the army.

Wilmeth stated he hopes to employ Mrs. Palangian in the near future.

Wilmeth stated that the ethnic background of Mr. Palangian is Armenian. Mrs. Palangian is Russian.

Wilmeth advised that the Palangians like living in the United States. They reside in Apartment #16 of the Plaza Summit Apartments on Summit Avenue in Arlington. Their apartment has one bedroom. They have no automobile. Neither of the Palangians can drive an automobile although both now have taken out beginners licenses. They plan to buy an automobile when they learn to drive.

As to the friends of the Palangians, Wilmeth stated that these consist of some third year students in the university and various persons with Russian background whom the Palangians have met in the Fort Worth and Dallas area. Among these friends are George De Mohrenschildt and Ilya Mamantov, both of whom reside in Dallas, Texas. They know other persons of Russian background who reside in Fort Worth.

Wilmeth stated that Mr. Palangian does not want to return to Russa, nor does his wife. Mr. Palangian is more reticent and retiring and a non-social type. Mrs. Palangian is more of the social type and has a more gregarious nature. The Palangians drink a little beer but do not drink much whiskey. Mr. Palangian likes to play chess and spends a great deal of his time in study. He is working hard to improve his English.

As to his fluency in languages, Palangian, according to Wilmeth, is very fluent in all phases of the French language. His second best language, in which he has obtained excellent fluency in all phases, is the Russian language. He speaks, reads, writes and understands English very well although he does have an accent. He does not speak the Moroccan or Armenian languages. Wilmeth stated that Mrs. Palangian is primarily fluent in all phases of the Russian language; her second best language, in which she has attained excellent fluency in all phases, is the French language; and her third and much weaker language is English.

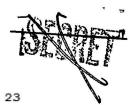

Wilmeth stated that since the arrival of the Palangians in Arlington, he has observed nothing about them which would indicate that they are interested in furthering the aims of the Russians or any foreign country. He believes them both to be very materialistic. He feels that they would like to settle in the United States. Neither has shown any interest whatsoever in communism and he does not believe them either to have ever been a member of the Communist Party.

Wilmeth said that Mr. Palangian has made the statement that if one wishes to get ahead in Russia, he should be a member of the Communist Party. He has also made the statement that in his opinion the top government officials of Russia are sincere in their beliefs in communism and in their desire to improve the lot of the Russian people. He has further stated, according to Wilmeth, that the bureaucrats below the top echelon are many times simply that, bureaucrats with a greater interest in their own personal welfare and materialistic positions than in the furthering of communism or in the welfare of the common people.

Wilmeth said that both the Palangians speak of remaining in the United States and obtaining their PhD degrees in language.

Wilmeth said that the information that he has furnished concerning the Palangians is from memory and is based upon letters he has received from the Palangians, conversations he has had with them since their arrival in the United States, and his own observations.

Mr. Wilmeth advised that the Palangians have planned to return to Europe in June, 1968, to visit with Mr. Palangian's mother in France.

He speaks, reads, writes and understands English very well although he does have an accent. He does not speak the Moroccan or Armenian languages. Wilmeth stated that Mrs. Palangian is primarily fluent in all phases of the Russian language; her second best language, in which she has attained excellent fluency in all phases, is the French language; and her third and much weaker language is English.

Wilmeth stated that since the arrival of the Palangians in Arlington, he has observed nothing about them which would indicate that they are interested in furthering the aims of the Russians or any foreign country. He believes them both to be very materialistic. He feels that they would like to settle in the United States. Neither has shown any interest whatsoever in communism and he does not believe them either to have ever been a member of the Communist Party.

Wilmeth said that Mr. Palangian has made the statement that if one wishes to get ahead in Russia, he should be a member of the Communist Party. He has also made the statement that in his opinion the top government officials of Russia are sincere in their beliefs in communism and in their desire to improve the lot of the Russian people. He has further stated, according to Wilmeth, that the bureaucrats below the top echelon are many times simply that, bureaucrats with a greater interest in their own personal welfare and materialistic positions than in the furthering of communism or in the welfare of the common people.

Wilmeth said that both the Palangians speak of remaining in the United States and obtaining their PhD degrees in language.

Wilmeth said that the information that he has furnished concerning the Palangians is from memory and is based upon letters he has received from the Palangians, conversations he has had with them since their arrival in the United States, and his own observations.

Mr. Wilmeth advised that the Palangians have planned to return to Europe in June, 1968, to visit with Mr. Palangian's mother in France.
