Re Caracas letter to Bureau dated 4/11/72.

On 6/19/72, FRANCIS FLUCHE, Investigator, Interpol Division, Technical Judicial Police (PTJ), Caracas, Venezuela, advised that he had caused a search of national identification files and of all logical police records in an effort to ascertain whether subject LUIGI GIOVANNI MANOCCHIO had ever been fingerprinted in Venezuela under his true name or any other representation. This search was negative and no record identifiable with MANOCCHIO was located.

A review of the billing for food and beverage services noted extensive charges for groups of three to nine people at the Cabana Restaurant located at poolside. One other charge of note was made to rent the Orinoco Room on April 5, 1972, for a party of nine people. This was charged to Oster and the rental was made at the request of Mr. Alexander. Lowe advised that he could not identify Alexander based on the information available and that he would contact appropriate hotel personnel to further identify Di Luglio, Caprio, and Oster. X (u)

On April 10, 1972, Inspector Ivan Gonzalez Landaeta, Interpol Division, Technical Judicial Police, Caracas, advised that he had reviewed appropriate immigration records and determined the following: X (u)

FIB

Thomas Di Luglio, United States Passport 1917516, Frank Caprio, United States Passport 0648620, and Richard Oster, United States Passport 1801148, arrived in Caracas, Venezuela, on April 4, 1972, via Pan American Airways Flight 203 at 9:05 PM. They did not have visas or tourist cards to enter Venezuela but were allowed to stay based on their declaration that they were "in transit without visa" and they would continue to Curacao, Netherlands Antilles, via ALM (Dutch Antillean Airlines) On April 8, 1972. Di Luglio, Caprio and Oster departed Caracas on VIASA Flight 740 at 10:00 AM on April 7, 1972, with the first stop scheduled for Miami, Florida. It was not possible to determine whether Miami was their final destination. X (X)(u)

On April 11, 1972, Mr. Lowe, supra, advised that he had contacted all logical food service personnel and determined that Oster apparently is not identifiable with Manocchio and that Manocchio, based on available photographs, was not in attendance at any of the meals served by the hotel. X (X)(u)

Lowe noted that on the occasion of the utilization of the Orinoco Room by the party of nine, the purpose of this meeting had to do with the display of a large quantity of jewelry as one of the waiters had observed a small suitcase which had been opened and jewelry and stones were lying loose on the table.
