It will be noted that the interview on June 27, 1963, of [redacted] was extremely effective in that [redacted] became cooperative with the interviewing agent and showed a desire to assist the New York Office in this investigation and other labor matters within the jurisdiction of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

OTHER 4

This report is setting out a portion of the interview in the body of the report and placing this confidential information on the administrative pages for the purpose of protecting [redacted] who has been opened by the New York Office as a Potential Criminal Informant. It is felt that due to [redacted] closeness to labor officials and other individuals, certain information which will be set forth could be readily traced to him.

Provenzano
[redacted] advised that he is very friendly with TONY PROVENZANO, NUNZIO PROVENZANO, "HAPPY" REYNOLDS, SAL BRIGUGLIO, RAYMOND WEAN, and RICHIE BARRETT. He stated that in the past he has done "strong-arm work" for TONY and NUNZIO PROVENZANO, and had been accompanied by REYNOLDS and BARRETT on these occasions. [redacted] stated that he was arrested in 1961 with RICHIE BARRETT while he and BARRETT were attempting to enter a juvenile furniture company in New Jersey for the purpose of pouring chemicals all over the machinery and floors of the building. He stated that he and BARRETT were apprehended by the police on the roof of this building before they could gain entrance, and as a result they were charged with attempted burglary.

[redacted] stated further that the police were not cognizant of the actual reason for their presence, and although they confiscated the chemicals, apparently never tied the facts together and did not know that this disruption of the business was the real reason for their being there. [redacted] went on to advise that "HAPPY" REYNOLDS was present but was hiding in the automobile parked near the factory and the police never discovered him. This "contract" for the disruption of this business was given to [redacted] BARRETT, and REYNOLDS by NUNZIO PROVENZANO, and they were to be paid $1500 upon completion of the job. [ ] went on to advise that as a result of their arrest prior to the fulfillment of the contract, NUNZIO never paid the money. [ ] went on to advise that he is extremely bitter about NUNZIO's not paying the money or paying the police so that the charges could have been dropped.

[ ] went on at this point to advise that in New Jersey money will buy just about anyone from judges on down in the local towns and cities.

[ ] stated that he and RICHIE BARRETT have on two occasions fulfilled "contracts" for TONY PROVENZANO for assaulting GEORGE PHILLIPS, leader of the opposition in Local 560, International Brotherhood of Teamsters (IBT). He stated that on the first occasion he and BARRETT received $1,000 from TONY which was paid through NUNZIO PROVENZANO. On the second occasion, he and BARRETT received $2,500 directly from TONY PROVENZANO at a Local 560 meeting. [ ] advised that when PHILLIPS was assaulted on the second occasion the instructions were to break PHILLIPS' legs. As a result, BARRETT used a hammer in the assault and repeatedly struck PHILLIPS on the body and legs with the hammer in an attempt to break his legs.

U.S.A. [ ] was of the opinion that SAL BRIGUGLIO was the person responsible for the disappearance of "3 Fingers Brown" CASTELLITO.

[ ] advised he has nothing definite regarding the disappearance of CASTELLITO, but it is strongly rumored among labor persons that it was BRIGUGLIO's boys who did the job. He went on to advise that BRIGUGLIO has his own men which he uses for any strong-arm work or other "contracts".

[ ] upon the conclusion of this interview, advised that he was attempting to contact REYNOLDS on this date, and if he is successful would attempt to obtain information concerning the murder of WALTER GLOCKNER.

On June 27, 1963, [ ] telephonically contacted Special Agent RUSSEL F. SULLIVAN and advised that he had been in touch with "HAPPY" REYNOLDS on this date. He was advised by REYNOLDS that NUNZIO PROVENZANO wanted to give him [ ] and RICHIE BARRETT a "contract" to handle GEORGE PHILLIPS. CLARK stated he did not know if this "contract" was to "rough-up" PHILLIPS or kill him. N.Y.

[ ] stated that during his conversation with REYNOLDS, the only comment REYNOLDS made regarding the GLOCKNER shooting was that "SALLY made a big mistake". [ ] felt that this reference of SALLY was to SALLY BRIGUGLIO. N.Y.

[ ] went on to advise that REYNOLDS invited [ ] to drive him (REYNOLDS), REYNOLDS' wife and children to their summer home. [ ] stated that NUNZIO PROVENZANO and RICHIE BARRETT were also invited to REYNOLDS' summer home in Highland, New York. [ ] advised that he would be in touch with Special Agent SULLIVAN on Monday morning or as soon as they had returned from the country.

On 7/1/63, PCI [ ] telephonically contacted SA RUSSEL F. SULLIVAN. He advised that he did not accompany "HAPPY" REYNOLDS to REYNOLDS' summer home over the previous week-end as was originally planned. [ ] stated that the automobile which he had borrowed from ~~JOE MARGOLA~~ (ph) broke down, and as a result of this, ~~JOE MARGOLA~~, who has two automobiles, used the other one to take [ ] and his family to Highland Falls, NY. CLARK went on to advise that REYNOLDS is paying $800 for the rental of this bungalow at Highland Falls, NY. CLARK further stated he did not know the exact address of the bungalow, but would obtain this information upon his first visit to REYNOLDS' bungalow.

[ ] went on to advise that REYNOLDS invited [ ] and his family to accompany REYNOLDS to the bungalow over the week-end of July 4, 1963. [ ] further stated he has not been in touch with anyone since June 28, 1963, and had nothing pertinent or current regarding the GLOCKNER shooting.

On July 2, 1963, PCI [ ] was contacted by SA SULLIVAN and advised the following:

He stated that he was to meet REYNOLDS at 12 noon, July 3, 1963, and accompany REYNOLDS to the summer home in Highland Falls, NY. He stated that it is anticipated that NUNZIO PROVENZANO, RICHIE BARRETT, and others would be visiting REYNOLDS over the long week-end. [ ] stated that NUNZIO PROVENZANO is very anxious to give out a "contract" on GEORGE PHILLIPS; however, [ ] was not aware of the degree of the contract and expects to gain more information on this over the week-end.

[ ] went on to advise that when he was with REYNOLDS on June 27, 1963, they were drinking at McGovern's Bar on Spring Street. During this period, RAYMOND WEAN entered the bar, and [ ] thought there was going to be a fight between REYNOLDS and WEAN, as WEAN is extremely disliked by REYNOLDS.

[ ] went on to advise that the reason for the bad blood between REYNOLDS and WEAN was that WEAN had committed the armed robbery in 1961 which REYNOLDS was arrested for in Jersey City, New Jersey. [ ] stated that it had been planned that REYNOLDS, WEAN, and [ ] would "pull this job", but due to a mix-up REYNOLDS and [ ] left the bar and WEAN, having the only gun, held up and robbed the owners of the bar. [ ] advised that they (REYNOLDS and [ ] were met later by WEAN, and to the best of his knowledge they all received approximately $1000 each. [ ] went on to state that REYNOLDS was angry because he had to go through the trial, and it cost him money to pay off some people which WEAN never reimbursed REYNOLDS for. [ ] stated that as a result of this REYNOLDS wants nothing to do with WEAN, and WEAN stays away from REYNOLDS.

It will be noted in the report of LINCOLN J. STOKES on June 26, 1963, at Newark, this arrest and trial was discussed on pages 42, 43, and 44.
