The following information was recently received by the Department of Justice from a confidential source who has furnished reliable information in the past:

A conference of various ^{Mich}persons including James R. Hoffa, two vice presidents of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, and Joseph F. Verhelle, former president of Public Bank, Detroit, allegedly took place in Hoffa's office in Washington, D.C., on or about November 18, 1963. They discussed matters concerning the Teamsters Pension Fund, allegedly including the possibility of a loan from the fund for the purpose of purchasing the building at 130 North Franklin, Chicago, Illinois. Meissner Engineers, Inc. (MEI), formerly occupied the top five floors of this building and now is reportedly interested in purchasing the building, possibly in conjunction with Verhelle and/or other purchasers.

Verhelle reportedly felt that the above-mentioned loan could be made and that Robert C. ~~Meissner~~, president of MEI, could be of assistance to Hoffa in view of business and political contacts of MEI in Nashville, Tennessee, and Chicago. Verhelle indicated he had received information that MEI had done work on a chemical plant in Tennessee about a year ago and also had contacts with the Tennessee Highway Department and various other agencies and political figures in Tennessee. Verhelle also conveyed the impression that Federal Judge Richard Austin of Chicago is an old friend of the [] family. To further explore the possibility that [] might be utilized for the benefit of Hoffa in connection with the cases pending in Federal courts in Nashville and Chicago, Verhelle indicated that he would soon confer with an attorney who was not identified by name but who was referred to as the "quarterback" of the team of more than 30 attorneys who reportedly are working on these cases for Hoffa. Verhelle anticipated that after so conferring, it would be determined whether [] might be able to help Hoffa through efforts directed toward one or more members of a jury or toward the judge himself.

Verhelle allegedly favored trying to make an "arrangement" with Judge Austin through [] on the basis of being an "old friend", and it was Verhelle's feeling that if Judge Austin were to make some rather minor procedural mistake that would cause a mistrial, such a "human error" on the part of the judge would not destroy his career but would be of great value to Hoffa. Verhelle indicated that in return for such favors to Hoffa, "they" would be happy to pay the persons responsible for the favors. Tentative arrangements were made for Verhelle to attempt to meet with [] in Chicago in the near future, to discuss the possibility of a Pension Fund loan to purchase the building at 130 North Franklin and also the possibility of [] being of assistance to Hoffa in regard to pending court cases.

Verhelle also intimated that he has a number of bank accounts in Switzerland and that he handles some of these accounts for Hoffa.
