Re Seattle airtel to the Bureau, dated 12/6/76.

Contact has been maintained with former SE 2434-PC. During all contacts but one, source indicated he had no further information of value concerning this matter.

On 1/4/77, source advised that as a result of his recent arrest by the Internal Revenue Service, he provided the information concerning ROSELLI to the IRS, which he had previously provided to the FBI. The source indicated that apparently IRS was very interested in the whereabouts of the maps of the Dominican Republic that the source had, but the source did not provide the maps to the IRS. The source additionally indicated that apparently the IRS had leaked this information to the Seattle press, inasmuch as a Seattle Times reporter contacted the source and wished to know where the maps of the Dominican Republic where. The source said he did not provide the maps to the reporter.

For the information of the Bureau and Miami, the Seattle Division is not in a position to prove the veracity of the source's statements concerning his activities in the Dominican Republic and captioned matter. Therefore, the above information recently provided by the source is being provided to the Bureau and Miami inasmuch as there is a possibility that this information will be published in a Seattle newspaper. It should be noted that the source was
