Memorandum from J. Kevin O'Brien to Mrs. Morris, dated 3/26/96
Re: JFK Task Force
62-HQ-1029205

DETAILS: On or about 4/2/96, the ARRB will formally advise, by letter to the Director, the determinations voted by them on FBI documents at meetings held 2/29 - 3/1/96 and 3/18 - 19/96. The ARRB letter will list determinations including the following actions: the release of 44 potential criminal informant (PCI) identities, the protection of seven PCIs, the release of 20 potential security informant (PSI) identities, the release of 2 individuals' identities listed as security informants (SI), the release of 11 Cuban sources, the protection of the technical surveillance on the Israeli Embassy, Washington, D.C., the release of information from a technical surveillance on the Cuban Mission, the release of information from a technical surveillance of a Polish diplomatic establishment, and the sustainment of all information related to the "Soviet" matters with a release date of August, 1996. Of the 41 documents, the FBI is in agreement with the ARRB decision to sustain the postponements in 12 documents. (X)

A review of the ARRB decisions to date provides the following observations:

a. individuals listed as PCIs in FBI documents for which the FBI Headquarters and field office confidential indices are negative or a review of FBI records determines the PCI deceased without a potential threat to family members are released; those PCIs that the FBI provides background for, but can not determine if they are living or deceased, the ARRB is deciding by birth date whether to release; and those PCIs the FBI was able to establish as still living, and involved in criminal activity are protected for 10 years;

b. individuals listed as PSIs are only protected if they have provided life threatening information, those PSIs or SIs providing information on communist party matters or anti Castro matters have been released; the ARRB staff has suggested that PSIs or SIs who were possibly double agents or working closely with foreign establishments where a potential threat could be perceived would be protected, but this situation has not yet been tested;

c. Cuban sources are released, these individuals have usually been listed with common names and are very difficult searching and positively identifying;

d. sources of information, gambling informants, and established sources follow the same guidelines as PCIs unless developed into security sources. (U)

Memorandum dated 3/26/96 to Mrs. Morris from J. Kevin O'Brien
Re: JFK Task Force

ADDENDUM: CRIMINAL INVESTIGATIVE DIVISION (CID), 4/13/96, SLT:slt

Reference 8/3/95 CID addendum to memorandum dated 7/28/95 to William E. Baugh, Jr. from John A. Hartingh, entitled "JFK Task Force."

Based on the general rationale articulated in the referenced addendum, and that set forth below, the CID takes the following position with regard to those proposed releases relating to CID sources:

Tab 1)

a) PCI Jack Patrick Hanratty - Appeal - Although the source is deceased, there is no information regarding the existence of surviving family members. The source was used as a top echelon informant for a five year period. Due to his access to high levels within organized crime circles, and their known penchant for violent retaliation, the CID cannot consider supporting a disclosure of his assistance to the FBI - even as a PCI - absent an effort to locate and contact survivors to ascertain the potential impact of the proposed disclosure on them.

b) PCIs Jack Marvin, Mary Halbouty, Ceasar J. Ferris, Robert S. Yarrington, J.H. Stelfox, Charles B. Flora, Barney Ham, Ralph Greenwood Salter, Leonard Simpson, J. C. Stephenson - Release - A good faith search of Bureau and public records has revealed no data allowing the PCIs to be further identified located, and advised of the proposed releases.

c) PCI Phil Bordonaro - Appeal Unless Reassessment Following Ten Year Postponement Is Allowed - A ten year extended postponement is insufficient if it mandates automatic disclosure at the end of that period and would preclude the FBI from contacting the PCI to re-assess the risks of disclosure.

d) PCIs Vance F. Bordelon and Marion C. Pearson Appeal - There is no information reflecting efforts to determine the existence of surviving family members of these individuals. Accordingly, the CID cannot consider supporting a disclosure of the sources' assistance to the FBI - even as PCIs - absent an effort to locate and contact survivors to ascertain the potential impact of the proposed disclosure on them.

e) PCI [] Appeal Unless Reassessment Following Ten Year Postponement Is Allowed - A ten year extended postponement is insufficient if it mandates automatic disclosure at the end of that period and would preclude the FBI from contacting the PCI to re-assess the risks of disclosure.

f) PCIs Vincent Locicero and Wade Hansen - Appeal - There is no information regarding the existence of surviving family members of these individuals - one of whom was a symbolized source, and the other of whom provided information on a number occasions. Accordingly, the CID cannot consider supporting a disclosure of their assistance to the FBI - even as PCIs - absent an effort to locate and contact survivors to ascertain the potential impact of the proposed disclosure on them.

a) PCI E. L. Keith - Appeal - The source was subsequently opened as a symbolized source and utilized as such for a 5 year period. Although he/she deceased, there is no information regarding the existence of surviving family members. Accordingly, the CID cannot consider supporting a disclosure of his assistance to the FBI - even as a PCI - absent an effort to locate and contact survivors to ascertain the potential impact of the proposed disclosure on them.

b) PCI Kit Pettigrew - Appeal - Records indicate that he is still alive. The CID cannot consider the releasing his identity unless/until he is contacted and agrees to the proposed disclosure.

c) PCIs B. Howard Thorne and Ralph T. Trujillo - Release - A good faith search of Bureau and public records has revealed no data allowing the PCIs to be further identified located, and advised of the proposed release.

d) PCI Edmond Zufferey - Appeal - It is unclear as to whether this name has already been released. If no release has occurred, the CID cannot consider a release, until he is contacted and agrees to the proposed disclosure, or until a good faith search of Bureau and public records has revealed that there is no data allowing the him to be further identified located, and advised of the proposed release.

Tab 3) PSI Sylverio Hernandez - Appeal - Unless a determination regarding this source would more appropriately be made by the NSD, the CID recommends an appeal inasmuch as the source provided long-term, albeit sporadic, assistance in highly sensitive areas; was just closed in 1985, and, apparently, is still alive but has not yet been contacted to ascertain the impact of disclosure on him.
