MM [105-3057] (S) (u)

MM T-2, who was acquainted with some of the personnel and activities of the Cuban Consulate, Miami, Florida, advised on November 17, 1960 that MANUEL GUILLOT had arrived in Miami on November 17, 1960 on transfer from the Cuban Consulate, New York City, to the Cuban Consulate, Miami, Florida, and spent most of the day at the consulate talking with EDELBERTO DIAZ ALVAREZ, Cuban Consul General.

MM T-3, who was acquainted with some of the personnel and activities of the Cuban Consulates at New York City and Miami, Florida, related on December 30, 1960 that MANUEL GUILLOT was employed at the Cuban Consulate, Miami, as a third class auxiliary. According to MM T-3, GUILLOT and EDELBERTO DIAZ ALVAREZ, Consul General, worked closely together at the consulate.

MM T-2 advised on November 14, 1960 that on or about October 28, 1960, a male Cuban described as approximately 5' 2", 130 lbs., dark hair, visited the Cuban Consulate, Miami, and conversed privately with PRIMITIVO CONDIS, a Consulate employee, for approximately one hour. Immediately thereafter CONDIS sent the following teletype to Captain LUIS PEREZ, Chief of the Fuerzas Mayor (Chief of Staff), Havana, Cuba: "Polaco, I am well. Need money and a contact from Cuba. Can be contacted urgently through the Consulate." The teletype was signed WILLY CAIBARIEN. It was the opinion of MM T-2 that the name CAIBARIEN was a code name. MM T-2 pointed out there is a small town in Cuba called Caibarien located in Las Villas Province. According to MM T-2, WILLY returned to the Cuban Consulate, Miami, on or about November 4, 1960 to see PRIMITIVO CONDIS in order to determine if the Consulate had received a reply to his teletype request. He was told CONDIS was not in and no reply had been received. While at the Consulate, WILLY stated in part the following.

He was in urgent need of getting in contact with Cuba as he could steal papers containing the names of all people belonging to the Frente Democratico Revolucionario (FRD)
