MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

SUBJECT: Internal Supplement to Preliminary Knowledgeability
Debriefing of Soviet Enigre Irina Mikhailovna LIPKINA

The following information was made available by Subject, Irina Mikhailovna LIPKINA, in response to inquiries based on Part II of the Debriefing Guide. This information is for internal use only.

1. FOREIGN CONTACTS/AQUAINTANCES WHILE IN THE SOVIET UNION:

A. Viktor (LNU) is a guest of the Soviet Government, a scholarship student at Moscow State University (MSU). A black African from Nigeria, where his father still resides, Viktor (aka Victor) is married to a Soviet woman about 27 years old who is an instructor in the English faculty of MSU. Viktor himself is probably in his early thirties. Viktor travels a lot on journalistic assignments; Subject didn't know whether Viktor's journalistic jobs are performed for Soviet press organs or foreign periodicals. Subject recalls Victor claims to have relatives in the United States. Victor's wife, whose name Subject could not remember, should have had a baby about six or seven months ago, i.e. in about January or February 1974. Victor hates living in the Soviet Union; he feels persecuted because of racial discrimination against himself and, especially against his wife for having married a Negro. He fears for the fate of his mulatto baby. As soon as he can arrange to get her out of the country with him, he intends to settle in England, where he allegedly has money in the bank, placed there by his father from Nigeria. Subject could not provide even approximate dates when Viktor may have originally arrived in the USSR. Subject believes Viktor is still a Nigerian citizen.

B. Bill (presumably William) MARTIN:

Subject said she had been told by her cousin Sofiya SARENKO and a friend Igor ERENEBURG that MARTIN had been an American spy who arrived in Moscow about 1965. His espionage activities were allegedly discovered by the KGB, who interrogated and broke him. Through interrogation, the KGB was able to "double" him back against the Americans. Under the debriefer's queries as to why the KGB would have use for a doubled American agent in Moscow, Subject replied she didn't understand why Martin could be a valuable double agent, merely she had been told he was.

When Martin first arrived in Moscow, circa 1965, he was about 32 years old. He is now at least forty, although he looks somewhat younger. He is about 6 feet, three inches tall with very short blond hair, a round, freckled face, blue eyes, and an average build. He is unmarried, reportedly has no employment, and resides in a large apartment building near the embassy district in Moscow.

C. Subject was acquainted with ERIC (LNU), a mathematician and member of the French team at the Serpukhov atomic center. Eric and Subject's husband were engaged in speculation in icons.

D. Subject met several other foreign nationals with whom her husband traded in foreign currency, icons, objets d'art, but could not remember any additional details about them which are not covered in debriefings of her husband.

2. RELATIVES, FRIENDS, AND ACQUAINTANCES WHO OCCUPY POSITIONS OF INTELLIGENCE INTEREST OR TRAVEL ABROAD ON PCS OR TDY BASIS:

A. See separate SX memo No. 23624 on Alla and Danya LNU, probably identifiable as Alla and Kim Akhmedovich KOSHEV. Koshev is second secretary of the Soviet Embassy in Amman, Jordan.

B. See separate SX memo No. 23628 on Sergey MANESHIN, physicist, employed in a scientific research institute under the auspices of Moscow State University.

C. See separate SX memo No. 23642 on Galina Davidovna BABUSHKINA, Soviet hairdresser and judge of international competitions, and her husband, Leonid BABUSHKIN, an oral surgeon.

D. See separate SX memo No. 23635 on Subject's half-brother Leonid MGIJEVSKIY, now a resident of Vienna, Austria, as well as information on Mogilevskiy in Paragraph 14B of the Preliminary Knowledgeability Debriefing of Subject.

E. See separate SX memo No. 23695 on Subject's first cousins Leonid Khaynovich and Grigoriy Khaynovich SOKOLOVSKIY, a physicist and an aviation engineer respectively, both of whom are involved in secret work.

SECRET

F. See separate SX memo No. 23791 on Nella GELOVA, journalist employed in the American section of the Novosti Press Agency (APN) in Moscow.

G. See separate SX memo No. 23702 on Mikhail FOSTARCIK, an Investiya correspondent, and his wife, Irina Mikhaylowna POSTAPCHUK, a teacher of Russian literature in a closed military institute.

H. Subject identified the following additional persons who occupy positions of intelligence interest, who serve abroad, or who travel to the West. In the cases of those persons described below, there was insufficient information from Subject or insufficient apparent vulnerabilities to justify separate SX reporting.

(1) Yelena prn BYSTRITSKAYA, a rather well-known Soviet film actress who was born about 1934 in Moscow. One of her famous roles was in the film of Sholokhov's novel "Tikhii Don" (Quiet Flows the Don). Subject met Bystritskaya through her twin sister Vera DLUGINA in about 1968. At the time, Subject's sister was working in Moscow as an orderly at the dental polyclinic near the Dzerzhinskiy metro station, not far from the Ministry of Foreign Trade. This polyclinic serves many Soviets who travel abroad -- employees of the Ministry of Foreign Trade, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and, Subject assumes, the KGB. Bystritskaya was able to have her teeth fixed there as she is married to a Soviet diplomat, IGOR LNU. Subject is certain he has a different surname than his wife's who has retained hers throughout their marriage. Igor's current assignment is to a high diplomatic post in the Soviet Embassy in Paris. Subject believes he holds the rank of counselor. About 50 years old, Igor was born in Moscow. He is tall, on the thin side, with grey hair, and a distinguished looking face. He left for his PCS assignment in Paris in 1973. Subject believes Igor completed the Institute of Foreign Trade (not further identified by Subject) in Moscow. Bystritskaya has not accompanied her husband on his tours abroad as she has her own film career to pursue in Moscow. She did travel with him on vacation to France in about 1968 or 1969; her husband speaks fluent French. Bystritskaya is a totally apolitical person who is interested only in her career; basically she has a good heart. Both Bystritskaya and Igor are Party members.

(2) Aleksey prn lnu and Galina prn lnu: This couple lived as of October 1973 on the 9th floor of house number three, korpus three, on ulitsa 26 Bakinskikh Komissarov in Moscow, where Subject and her husband resided from 1970 through 1973. The husband, ALEKSEY, is a Dagestani (Dagestanets) national, who is a Professor of Cardiology in an important medical institute on Pirogov street. He was born about 1939. His wife, GALINA, born in Moscow in about 1946, is a Russian national.

She is also a physician and works in the same medical institute as does her husband. Subject doesn't believe either of them are Party members and both are extremely anti-Soviet. They maintain a large collection of foreign books, both in Russian and other languages, in their apartment. They buy and sell these books on the black market and speculate in diamonds and illegally-procured foreign goods as well. Subject observed an English-language history of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, published, Subject thinks, in America, in their book collection. The couple has a 1-1/2 year old daughter, Nasha (Mariya).

(3) LINA (LNU), probably currently employed in the Near Eastern department of the Novosti Press Agency in Moscow. Subject met Lina when Subject was employed as a master hairdresser at Salon Number Five on ulitsa Kazitskaya in Moscow, which is located near the APN building from 1967-69. Lina was one of Subject's clients there and continued to have Subject do her hair when Subject moved to Salon Number Six on ulitsa Medvedeva. Never married, LINA was born about 1939; she is a Russian national. From about 1966-71, she served as secretary to Danya pmu lnu (possibly identifiable as Kim Akhmedovich KOSHEV), who was then a political attache in the Soviet Embassy in Damascus. When she returned to Moscow, she began working in the Near Eastern section of Novosti, but told Subject in 1972 that she expected to be sent abroad again to a Soviet embassy, probably in the Middle East. About 5'4" in height, Lina is stocky and plump, with short reddish hair teased high on her head, green eyes, a straight nose, and a round face. A simple, uncomplicated person. Lina's interests are food, good restaurants, good times, liquor, and her many lovers, most of whom are in the Soviet diplomatic community. Lina comes from a worker's family and probably has only a secondary education.

(4) Gennadiy pmu ANTONOV (Subject is not absolutely sure of his surname; Antonov was as approximate as she could come). Subject and her sister occupied Antonov's apartment on Kholturinskaya ulitsa near the Preobrazhenskoye metro station off and on for a year in about 1969-70. At the time, Antonov was serving in economic affairs in the Soviet Embassy in Madrid. Subject believes his tour there was from 1968 until 1973. Antonov is a close friend of Subject's half-brother Leonid Mikhailovich MOGILEVSKIN (see SX-25435) who arranged for his sisters to join Antonov's mother Mariya Ivanovna in the large 4-room apartment while Antonov was away. Subject met Antonov once in 1970 when he was on home leave in Moscow. Subject described him as about average height and weight, with dark brown short hair, and square-rimmed glasses. Subject puts Antonov's approximate date of birth as 1939. Antonov's wife, who accompanied him to Madrid, is tall and fat. Subject doesn't remember her name. The couple have a daughter, possibly named Natasha, who would be about nine years old today. The daughter was not with her parents in Spain. Subject thinks she learned from her brother that Antonov finished the Institute of Foreign Relations (MIMO) under the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, where he studied English among other languages. He is a careerist and Party member who follows the straight and narrow ideological path, at least on the surface. Antonov's father perished during World War II. Subject is certain her half-brother Bogilevskiy can supply much additional information on Antonov.

(5) Lev AMBARYAN, a 45-year-old Armenian, is the Director of the "Charodeyka" beauty salon, located on Kalinin Prospekt in Moscow. According to Subject, the Charodeyka is one of the two most fashionable beauty salons in Moscow. Subject became acquainted with Ambaryan through her mother, who worked as a cashier at the Charodeyka salon from 1970 to 1973. Ambaryan is the personal barber of Aleksey KOSYGIN, Chairman of the USSR Council of Ministers. He constantly goes to Kosygin's apartment to cut his hair. Ambaryan has also traveled abroad on several occasions during the past few years to compete in and judge international barber competitions, primarily those held in socialist countries. In addition to Kosygin, Ambaryan has other clients within the top rank of the Party and government, whose hair he cuts in their private apartments. Of average height, Ambaryan looks like a typical Armenian -- he is plump with black curly hair, black eyes, and an olive complexion. His wife, Tamara AMBARYAN, is about 40 years old, and also works as a barber (for men) at the Charodeyka salon.

3. ARRESTS AND POSSIBLE KGB RELATIONSHIPS:

A. Subject claims she was never arrested.

B. Subject identified the following individuals as KGB-affiliated:

(1) Subject's neighbors on the first floor of house number three, korpus three on ulitsa 26 Bakinskikh Kommissarov in Moscow, who occupied, she believes, apartment number 330, were a couple named Tanya (Tatyana) and ANATOLIY (LNU). Subject considers Tanya an informer (stukach) for the KGB. Officially, Tanya works somewhere on the Ploshchad Nagina. Her husband, Anatoliy (Tolya) is the son of an important Party man who is the Head of a trust. The father gets good jobs for Anatoliy. Anatoliy was in Iran from about 1972-73 as a translator; he speaks English and some French. Subject opined he probably worked for the KGB there, although he was officially under the auspices of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. When he returned to Moscow in about 1973, his father got him a job as a construction engineer in a scientific research institute (otherwise unidentified). Subject believes the couple has many friends who work in or around the KGB.

(2) Subject was formerly well-acquainted with Tamara KHOLODOVA (maiden name), who worked in Subject's last place of employment as a master hairdresser from 1967-72. (The Salon Number One on Kuznetsky Most in Moscow). Born about 1946 in Moscow and a Russian national, Kholodova is a Party activist who held positions of importance in the Komsomol Committee of the Dzerzhinskiy rayon. In about 1971, she married the chauffeur of one of the top Party men in the CPSU, a man Subject believes is named Vasily NERASOV. After her marriage she landed a job in the beauty salon of the Intourist Hotel, which caters only to foreigners. Through her own connections, Kholodova obtained a position as chauffeur for her husband at the Soviet Embassy in Stockholm. The couple departed together for Sweden about a year ago, in the summer of 1973. Subject believes that both Kholodova and her husband report to the KGB. Subject's husband believes NERASOV is a KGB officer. Both of these people were described by Subject as faithful Communists and good Party members.

SECRET

C. See Paragraph 1B above for information on Bill MARTIN, whom Subject heard was an American spy who had been doubled by the KGB.

4. DISSIDENCE INFORMATION:

Subject was never involved in any dissident activities in the Soviet Union. She had no interest in underground literature (samizdat) and never read any, nor did she ever read Russian-language books published abroad. It is unlikely Subject would have read such material or participated in dissident activities even had she had the chance to do so, as Subject and her husband disdained the efforts of the Soviet dissidents as foolish and pointless. Subject herself has only a secondary education and limited mentality. She is not interested in ideological matters and is an apolitical person. It is highly doubtful Subject read much of anything, forbidden or otherwise.

5. INFORMATION CONCERNING SOVIET NATIONALISM PROBLEMS:

None. Subject has difficulty differentiating between the various minority nationalities of the Soviet Union and tends to lump certain of them together under convenient generic terms, such as "Siriyytsy" (Syrians) for Soviets of Turkic or other Moslem nationality descent. Subject had no interest in the plight of minority nationalities in the USSR. She recognized it was her Jewish ancestry which helped her to emigrate legally from the USSR, but that is as far as it went.

6. COMMENT CONCERNING FOREIGN RADIO BROADCASTS TO THE SOVIET UNION:

Not covered in this debriefing. Subject never mentioned listening to foreign radio, even in passing.

7. CRIME IN THE SOVIET UNION:

Subject apparently was not personally involved in criminal activities in the Soviet Union, but she was well aware of her husband's continual black market operations. Subject's husband dealt successfully in speculation in icons, gems, gold, objets d'art, and foreign currency, and occasionally bought and resold marijuana and hashish -- all of these activities are considered criminal acts in the USSR. Details of Subject's husband's activities may be found in his debriefings. See especially SX-23634 on Subject's husband's knowledge of Soviet black market activities, and Memorandum for the Record, dated 30 May 1974 in Subject's husband's 201-922053.

8. INFORMATION PERTAINING TO SOVIET MAIL CENSORSHIP PROCEDURES:

No information.

9. KNOWLEDGEABILITY REGARDING KGB MEDUS OPERNDI INSIDE USSR:

None.

10. IDENTIFICATION OF OTHER SOVIETS WHO MAY BE OF POSSIBLE OPS INTEREST:

In addition to those individuals covered above in paragraphs two and three, Subject was debriefed on the following Soviet personalities who may be of marginal operational interest.

A. Lev GROZOVSKIY: Grozovskiy is the Director of the Dental Polyclinic near the Dzerzhinskoye metro station in central Moscow. This clinic is located near the building of the Soviet Ministry of Foreign Trade and is frequented by many Soviet officials who travel abroad and their families (cf. Paragraph 2H(1) above on Bystritskaya). Grozovskiy, as director of the polyclinic, is very knowledgeable on its clientele. Himself an oral surgeon (stomatolog), Grozovskiy is about 55 years old and a Jew. Subject met him through her brother Leonid MCGILEVSKIY who is a stomatologist by training. Grozovskiy is a Party member. His daughter, Liliya, is also a stomatologist and is married to a construction engineer named Lev LNU. In order to supplement his income, Grozovskiy does private dental work on the side (na levo).

B. Tatyana ZAREDSKAYA is another stomatologist employed at the dental polyclinic described above. About 45 years old, she is Jewish and a Party member, born in Moscow. Her first husband, whose surname she still uses, was Yevgeniy ZAREDSKIY, who worked at the same clinic as a dental technologist. Her second husband, Pita (LNU) is an architect, who is also a Party member. Zaredskaya, as of October 1973, was considering applying to legally emigrate from the Soviet Union. Also involved in work "on the side", Zaredskaya averaged five rubles per tooth in her illegal private practice. Officially, a dentist gets only one ruble for filling a tooth.

SECRET

C. LENA (pma lnu) and VIKTOR (pma lnu) occupied a 7th floor apartment in the building where Subject resided until her departure from the Soviet Union -- house three, korpus three, ulitsa 26 Bakinskikh Komissarov in Moscow. This couple is Jewish and are both Candidates of Science. Subject believes their field of expertise is physics. They both work in the same very secret installation identified only by post office box. Subject does not know the number nor the location of this installation. Both from Moscow, the husband Viktor is about 42 years old, his wife about 40. They have an eleven-year-old son named Zhenya (Yevgeniy). Viktor apparently reads English and understands spoken English to an extent. He is tall and dark, with a solid build. She looks like a typical Armenian with short dark curly hair, dark eyes, and a deep olive complexion.

D. Galina SERGEYEVA, born in 1952 in Moscow, came from a poor worker's family. In 1970, when she was 18, she got a job in the department of administration for Soviet foreign correspondents in the Soviet Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Working in a menial capacity there, she received a meager salary of less than eighty rubles per month, and in order to supplement her income, became involved in illegal black market foreign currency deals. She began sleeping around with black students at Lumsba University (PFU) from whom she received foreign currency (valuta). She used this to make transactions in the foreign currency stores. In 1971, when she was only nineteen, she was apprehended by the police (MVD) who took her to the Petrovka. She received a two-year sentence which forbade her to travel anywhere outside of the environs of Moscow. She lost her job at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and got a job as a secretary in some establishment in Moscow Golast'. In the meantime, she married one of the black students she had been sleeping with. Subject doesn't know his name. He finished his term at Lumsba about 1-1/2 years ago and sought to return home. As she was forbidden to leave Moscow by virtue of her criminal record, he divorced her and returned to Africa alone. Despondent, Galina proceeded to begin sleeping around again with other black students and diplomats and dealing in foreign currency exchanges once again. Subject described Galina as a plain-looking girl.

E. Sofiya SHARINA is Subject's second cousin on Subject's mother's side. She is 24-years-old, a graduate of the pedagogical faculty of a technical, where she specialized in music. She then completed the Pedagogical Institute imeni Lenin by studying evenings and received a diploma in 1973. She currently teaches piano in a music school. Unmarried, Sharina has a large circle of friends among diplomats and foreign students. She is also involved in black market operations.

F. Lev Danovich MIRMAN, a Jew, about 50 years of age, is a Party member and head of the UBKO (Upravleniye Bytovogo Khuznaya nogo Obsluzhivaniya - Administration of Communal Living Services) of the Moscow Gospolkom. He is a close friend of Subject's brother Leonid Mogilevskiy. His son, Valeriy MIRMAN (see reporting in Subject's husband's 201) was a blackmarketeer and pimp who was arrested in 1973 and is now serving a 15-year sentence in the prison for especially dangerous criminals in LGOVSK. A talented, proper, faithful servant of the Party, the senior Mirman lost his job as Deputy head of a large combine when his son was arrested.

G. Anatoli FISH is a construction engineer in an overt scientific research institute. About 34 years old, he finished the Building Institute imeni Kuybyshev. He is extremely anti-Soviet and, as a Jew, wants to emigrate from the Soviet Union. He works with fru ZAREDSKIY, the cousin of the stomatologist ZAREDSKAYA described above in paragraph 10B.

H. Svetlana KAL'MAN is a famous Soviet model who works in the so-called Models' House (dom modeley) on Kalinin prospekt. She is beautiful and a rather famous mannikin. Now about 30 years old, she is unmarried, but has frequent love affairs, many of which are with foreigners. An ethnic Russian, her father died during World War II. Her mother used to work for Intourist and possibly still does. Kal'man's mother is a Party member, but the model is not.

11. ELICITATION FROM SOURCE OF OTHER POSSIBLE EMIGRE SOURCES OF PI AND OPS LEADS INTEREST:

Subject, as did her husband, constantly referred to her half-brother Leonid MCGILEVSKIY as a tremendous source of information on the Soviet black market and high-level governmental and Party corruption. For additional information on Mogilevskiy, see SX-23655 and paragraph 14B of the Preliminary Knowledgeability Debriefing of Subject.

12. DEBRIEFER'S ASSESSMENT OF EMIGRE:

Subject is a woman of limited education and limited intellectual capabilities. She is not politically motivated and hated living in the USSR not because of its political system, but because she couldn't get what she wanted in a material sense. She strikes me as being frivolous and flighty and probably would have no compunctions about fidelity to her husband should the appropriate opportunity for an extra-marital liaison arise. She is obviously lazy and uninformed about many things. She appeared to know even less about the structure of the Soviet government, Party, educational system, and society than did her debriefer. She probably read very little of anything in the USSR and, in America, will probably devote most of her attention to the television set. She is impressed with names and money -- the only questions she asked me as her debriefer were in regard to the latest fashions, and who was sleeping with whom in the "jet set" -- she seemed particularly fascinated by Jackie Onassis. As her intellectual and academic abilities are severely limited, it was not surprising that Subject got confused about places of work, geographical locations, nationalities, etc. At one point, when I was trying to find out the country of assignment of a Soviet diplomat she knew, she asked me to name all the countries of Europe. When I got to Spain she said "ah, that's it!"

Nevertheless, there was no suspicion in my mind that Subject was lying. She may have exaggerated or stretched the truth at times in order to please me and encourage me to continue the debriefing farther (in order for her to earn more money), but I do consider that what she said was basically true as she understood it.

As far as CI apprehensions are concerned, I personally feel Subject is too limited intellectually to be used effectively by any intelligence service and I doubt the KGB would have picked her out to penetrate the emigration.

13. POSSIBLE ENLISTMENT OF SUBJECT'S ASSISTANCE TO FURTHER OPS LEAD RECRUITMENT EFFORT:

This was not even broached with Subject, and I don't think it ever should be.

14. TRACES ON INDIVIDUALS MENTIONED IN THE PRELIMINARY KNOWLEDGEABILITY DEBRIEFING:
