Association in Miami. ROSADO and GONZALEZ are not friends and are on different sides politically speaking, GONZALEZ being "more liberal". ROSADO was in contact with him in Miami in connection with Cuban exile activities until late 1969, when ROSADO came to California. He is not considered to be the type to engage in any such activities as bombing. There is no ill feeling between him and ROSADO.

(3) Dr. HUMBERTO FONTANA is not known to ROSADO. ^{K/A.}

(4) LUIS TORNES was president, (if not president at least a member), of the Veterans of Brigade 2506 in Miami for one year shortly after the brigade was organized. ROSADO may have seen him occasionally at Cuban exile functions in Miami after TORNES ceased being an official of the brigade, until 1968 at the latest. ROSADO has not met him or corresponded with him or heard from him through anyone else since 1968. There is no ill feeling between him and ROSADO.

(5) The idea of anyone transporting a "bomb", (of the sort used in connection with the captioned bombing), from Miami to California, particularly to deliver it to ROSADO, is ridiculous and laughable. Whoever might make such an allegation against ROSADO is not known. However, its falseness is manifest as is an allegation ROSADO was connected with a letter signed "EZEQUIEL" which was sent to the Cuban Chamber of Commerce in Los Angeles, not long after the assassination of TORRIENTE in Miami, threatening a dozen or so local Cubans. "EZEQUIEL" was an underground name for ROSADO in Cuba, which fact is fairly well known, and ROSADO would never use a name easily traceable to himself.

^{F/A.} It is recalled that MM 974-S ^{F/A.} furnished information in late 1974, that ORLANDO BOSCH AVILA had returned to Miami and on September 23 and 24, (1974), met in Miami with FELIPE RIVERO, ORLANDO ATIENZA, ALDO ROSADO of Los Angeles, FELIX EGUES CASILLON of Newark, IGNACIO NOVO of Union City, (NJ), and PEDRO DRUZ of Costa Rica to plan a series of bombings. This information, attributed to "rumor", has been invalidated so far as ROSADO is concerned, his employer having confirmed that he was at work on the above specified days. (X)(u)
