Attached herewith is a brief summary of certain points of interest discussed during the course of two meetings which SOURCE has had with KAMOR 1 after the latter's debriefing by Arthur J. Rany (see CGS 10382, 8 May 1961). It will be recalled that SOURCE had been in contact with KAMOR before Rany's visit, and in discussing the case with Rany, it was decided that there was no harm in SOURCE continuing the relationship. The material in this summary is for background information only. Any direct reference to it in conversations with KAMOR would, of course, probably compromise SOURCE.

Points of Interest: SOURCE on KAWIR

MICROFILMED
JUN 4 1962
DOC. NO. 588

of 19 June 1961: SOURCE met KAWIR on the afternoon of the 14th to discuss the possibility of a "summer" trip over KAWIR'S flat, after he left the country, as it would be possible to have a car in a flat in Paris, which KAWIR thought would suit SOURCE'S requirements rather well. SOURCE said "no" to this idea, as instructed by his C/O. During this meeting KAWIR also asked SOURCE if he would like to go on a car trip of about three weeks to the Soviet Union with he and his girl friend. He said that he planned to rent a car for about $200 (with driver), and planned to make the trip with four people sharing the expenses. He suggested SOURCE take a girl or find another car. He told SOURCE that the trip would be done as casually as possible and that some money could be raised by their staying with his relatives in Leningrad. He suggested two possible routes: one, through Sweden and Finland the usual way to Leningrad, and then on to Moscow and Leningrad and back through Poland; the alternative was through East Germany and Poland to East, Leningrad, Moscow, and return the same way or another southerly route. The trip could be accomplished for about $150.00 per person, according to KAWIR'S estimate. SOURCE said that KAWIR felt so strongly about making this trip that he even offered to personally absorb any of SOURCE'S expenses in excess of this estimated cost, within, as he put it, "several hundred kroner." KAWIR said that he would like to have SOURCE'S decision about making the trip as soon as possible, and they agreed that SOURCE would consider the idea and give KAWIR his answer at dinner in SOURCE'S flat on Monday, the 19th.

KAWIR also stated, that should this Russian trip not materialize, he would then probably make a short visit to Yugoslavia as his last look at Slavic lands before returning to the United States. He told SOURCE that he planned to return home by ship about the first week in September and will attend the social language program at Fordham University. (It is the same program for which he failed to get a scholarship.) KAWIR said that it would be a difficult time for him financially, as the tuition alone for this course is $500 per year.

Meeting on 19 June 1961: During the course of conversation, SOURCE told KAWIR that he could not make the trip. KAWIR stated that he would then not make the trip, implying that it would be too expensive at this time to try to organize it along the lines mentioned at their previous meeting. KAWIR was still most interested to make the trip and to see Russia once more before going back to the USA, according to SOURCE. KAWIR stated that he and his girl will now take the trip to Yugoslavia as an alternative. He was also most disappointed in the fact that he had not met Wit BRON, a friend of Sam Hanor, the painter, who is working for HANSEN in Moscow. SOURCE subsequently reported that KAWIR and his girl left Copenhagen on 1 July bound for Yugoslavia via Munich and Venice.)

Various Subjects Discussed by KAWIR and SOURCE

US and Soviet Foreign Policy: KAWIR stated that Russia had honored all of her agreements at Latta and Lottedan, and that the US really had no legal rights in West Berlin, especially since Russia had moved out of the eastern Sector of the city - at least legally, he added. He feels that neither the US nor Russia is totally in the right. KAWIR stated that he was favorable to the USA and hoped that it would soon begin to do something constructive, especially in our foreign policy, but that (here SOURCE is not absolutely certain that he interpreted KAWIR'S meaning correctly) if Russia were the first to do the constructive thing, then he would have to side with them. SOURCE felt here that KAWIR meant that there for the US has done nothing to alterate its policy.

KAWIR'S Attitude About Communism v. Capitalism: SOURCE reported that on this 19 June meeting KAWIR, KAWIR, SOURCE, and SOURCE started from the source and for time over this... with SOURCE. KAWIR said that Communism has a clear-cut idea over capitalism... first...
