PSEUDONYM: /Spencer O. Terteling /

PERSONALITY TRAITS: / Howard Hunt praised Barker in his book, Give Us This Day, for his eagerness, efficiency and complete dedication. "Overall his help was invaluable. The individual who first recruited Barker in Havana lauded his enthusiasm and his "puppy-dog loyalty" to his case officers, but found he was inclined to indiscretion because of a "belligerent" pro-Americanism. Another CIA officer, (David Morales) told Chris Hopkins in a 1972 telephone conversation that Barker was a "loudmouth" who Morales recommended terminating in 1962. (Morales was concerned that as a result of Barker's Watergate involvement, he would "tell the authorities everything he knows." Indeed, Barker tended to broadcast his affiliation with the CIA to the members of the Cuban exile community and anyone else who might have been interested. tolerable prior to the Bay of Pigs when his assignment as liaison between the FRD and the CIA was overt. However post Bay of Pigs CIA activities in the Miami area required a more covert approach. Barker was: told to strengthen his cover as prize fight manager and use "cut-outs" in his attempts to gather information about the activities of the exile groups. Gradually, he was to cease all direct contact with the exiles. For a man who had a "love of the game", and an even greater affinity for the more overt techniques of investigation and interview, it became increasingly difficult to find a niche in Miami CIA activities. By the time he was terminated from CIA employemnt in 1966, he had been involved less and less with gathering information on Cuban exile activities, and had spent the greater part of his time debriefing recent refugees from Cuba. He never seemed to adapt to the more covert requirements of his job nor was he ever able to establish the collective exile community perception that he was no longer affiliated with the Agency.

Barker reports Fiorini to participate in air strike over Cuba with Diaz Lanz brothers; a tempest is created in Miam's over the withdrawal of monetary support for Jose Miro Cardona and the CRC.

Barker planned to use the good offices of Manuel "Cuco" de Leon or Luis Somoza to see Manuel Artime in Nicaragua.

(Miguel de Leon Rojas was interviewed by the FBI on May 25, 1964, in connection with the investigation into allegations that Quentin Pino Machado was to have rescued Oswald after the assassination and arranged for his transport to Cuba. Miguel de Leon was named as a source of this information. Miquel de Leon is a former Congressman from Cuba, living in Coral Gables at the time of his FBI interview. He told the FBI that he heard the story at the home of Sixto Mesa, although he could not remember who had related the episode. He said he was aware of the fact that Machado, during 1959, had been appointed by Fidel Castr as Cuban Ambassador to Nicaraqua, that he subsequently was declared persona non grata, and that he had served in Mexico on a Cuban assignment to investigate activities directed against the Castro regime.)

Marcos Diaz Lanz trying to patch up differences between Fiorini and Pedro Diaz Lanz.

Barker reports Frank Fiorini information to the effect that Fiorini received two phone calls from General Clare Chenault in California, regarding participation in anti-Castro activities. Chenault suggested the exiles contact the Chine nationalists to request aid.

Barker also reported on the Diaz Lanz brothers. He also reported that Pedro Martinez Fraga, an officer in the CRC, would provide him with information on
