An article captioned, "Union Leader Here Forming Group Aimed at Giving Cuba Fair Play" appeared in the "Cleveland Press and News," a daily local newspaper, in its issue of 12/9/60. According to the article, Richard B. Tussey, who was forming a Cleveland Chapter of the FPCC and who was a member of the national committee of the FPCC, advised that Richard Gibson, former CBS newsman, was also a member of the national committee of the FPCC.

CV 288-S advised that a combined membership and public meeting of the Cleveland Chapter of the FPCC was held 2/5/61 at Cleveland. According to the informant, Ed Shaw of Detroit, identified by the source as mid-West co-ordinator for the FPCC, was the principal speaker. Shaw explained the purpose of the FPCC and stated the committee was started by Robert Tabor, of NY, a former CBS newspaper reporter who had spent a lot of time in Latin America and several months with Fidel Castro in Cuba during and after the revolution. Shaw related that Tabor became annoyed with the false reports the American Press was sending out of Cuba. According to Shaw, Tabor together with Gibson, identified by source as Acting National Secretary of the FPCC, managed to obtain enough money to run a full page ad in the "NY Times" which opposed the American Press reports and brought the truth about Cuba and the Castro Government to the American people.

On 6/16/61 Cliff Carrico, Office of Security, CIA, made available the following contents of an intraoffice CIA memorandum:

"Source advised that on 6/9/61, a sales conference was held at Beacon Press in Boston, Mass., by Edward Darling. At the sales meeting, Darling stated that they were going to publish a book on Cuba, by Waldo Frank. Source stated he then questioned Darling as to whether or not the book was pro-Castro. Darling stated it was slightly pro-Castro, but it went much deeper than that. Source said an argument ensued as to whether or not the book should be published and although the majority of the sales force was opposed to publishing the book, Darling was going to go through with the publication. (u) (S)

Source stated he then, through various publishing firms in NYC, determined that the book had been turned down by Carleton Beals, who had returned the book to Frank without even reading it, with the statement that he would not even read paid propaganda no less publish it. (u) (S)

Beals advised Source he should see Richard Gibson and Lyle Stewart, both of whom could collaborate that Raul Roa had made a grant of $7,000 to Frank to go to Cuba to write the book. (u) (S)

Source advised he sought out Gibson, the secretary of the FPCC, who testified before a Congressional Committee and when asked the color of his politics stated it was the same as the color of his skin, black. Gibson told Source to avoid Frank and not to have anything to do with Frank's book, as it had been bought and paid for by Castro. (S)(u)

Source advised that when he contacted Stewart, Stewart confirmed the fact that he told Gibson to stay away from the book, and Frank, because Raul Roa had purchased Frank, and the book was nothing but propaganda paid for by Castro. (S)(u)

Carrico advised that the source of the information was Felix Morrow, a personal friend, who had attended the American Book Seller's Convention in Washington, D.C. and who contacted Carrico for the purpose of seeking assistance in keeping the book from being published. (S)(u)

This meeting, according to the informant, was conducted in an informal manner and consisted mainly of a discussion led by Gibson, who pointed out it was his belief that although the FPCC was rather unpopular with the public at that time, things were getting better, especially since the aborted invasion of Cuba. Gibson stated people were beginning to realize that charges made by the FPCC that the CIA and the US Government were involved in the invasion were true. He stated this worked out in extreme favor for the FPCC. (S)(u)

TP 27-S on 3/6/62 advised he had seen correspondence between V. T. Lee of the Tampa Chapter of the FPCC and Richard Gibson (date not given), Acting Executive Secretary of the FPCC, NY concerning Sylvia Iglesias; a press release over the signature of V. T. Lee; and a letter addressed "To Whom it May Concern" from Iglesias' husband, Mario Iglesias; all concerning Sylvia Iglesias' attempts to obtain permission to go to Cuba. ~~X~~ (u)

According to this source, the letter from Gibson suggested that Lee get a copy of "the letter from the State Department or Immigration" and send it to the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) and indicated he, Gibson, had been in contact with Melvin L. Wulf, Assistant Legal Director of the ACLU, regarding this matter. ~~X~~ (u)

June Cobb, who was employed in the office of Fidel Castro and who was in charge of English publications in Cuba during 1960, advised on 4/3/62, when interviewed at WFO that she felt sure Lyle Stuart was not a "drop" whereby Cuban funds were channeled into the FPCC. She pointed out that this was not necessary since she had heard funds came from Cuba to Robert Taber and Richard Gibson for the FPCC. Cobb stated that Taber and Gibson were well liked in Cuba. She said that Taber was in the "hills" with Castro and that Gibson was considered, advantageously, as a Negro agitator in the US. Cobb stated that Teresa Casuso, former Cuban Ambassador to the UN, would be a person to interview concerning Cuban funds sent to Taber and Gibson of the FPCC. (S)(u)

Cobb related that "communists" tried to get Stuart eliminated from FPCC and denounced him as a "red-baiter." Gibson, according to Cobb, protected Stuart, eliminated the "communists" and held on to Stuart. (S)(u)

This reference in the file captioned "Cuban American Civil Rights Committee"(CACRC) set out lengthy information concerning the activities of Richard Gibson in connection with the CACRC. TP-27-S made available a letter which Ted Lee sent to Harold Wilson, Tampa, on 7/25/62. Lee in the letter stated that the "mighty chieftain" had left the field for a week and had left Lee with power of attorney to conduct affairs in his absence. Richard Gibson, acting executive secretary of the FPCC, according to the article, expressed the conviction that the Aug. 24 shelling of Havana from the sea by Cuban exiles was "part of a concerted effort by Cuban counter-revolutionaries and their American accomplices to provoke a war between the two countries."
