Grill Flame material was used to maintain a degree of continuity on hostage locations during the first five months of the crisis (i.e. when the hostages were detained largely within the Embassy Compound). Comparative analysis of hostage groupings cited in letters and physical relocation noted through other sources appeared to be correlated by Grill Flame reports. Grill Flame continues to be used in an attempt to locate the hostages, however, little or no reliable data is available from other sources as yet, therefore no evaluation can be made of its value.
