(S-ORCON) INFORMATION ABOUT REMOTE VIEWING FOR PARTICIPANTS (S-ORCON)

1. (S-ORCON) Remote Viewing (RV) is the intellectual process by which a person perceives characteristics of a location remote from that person; it does not involve any electronic sensing devices at or focused at the target site; nor does it involve classical photo interpretation of photographs obtained from overhead or oblique means.
2. (S-ORCON) RV has been performed by certain individuals successfully and we are confident other individuals can do it too.
3. (S-ORCON) The general outline of RV procedures is at paragraphs six and seven of the attached AMSAA RV Protocol.
4. (S-ORCON) You as a remote viewer may perform one or more types of RV.
5. (S-ORCON) The maximum frequency you may be asked to perform RV is two sessions per day, but no more than three sessions per week.
6. (S-ORCON) Your RV performance will be evaluated according to procedures at paragraph 13 of the protocol, during which time you will receive full information on the target for RV and an assessment of how closely your images match target site characteristics.
7. (S-ORCON) You may choose not to perform RV at a particular time without prejudice to further participation in this task, or you may discontinue participation permanently at any time without any prejudice.
8. (S-ORCON) The purpose of this project is to orient you to the performance of the task of RV so that you may:
  - a. Perform RV as part of your regular professional duties.
  - b. Demonstrate the full capabilities of RV.
9. (S-ORCON) There is no evidence of any adverse physical, psychological and/or social effects on the remote viewer from participation in this activity.
