

8601/2b

The site, relatively isolated, is located in an open area with water nearby. There are low, crumbling, flat-topped, clustered structures here, as well as (a) taller, curved structure(s).

There was, or is, a disgusting, putrid smell associated with one or several of the structures. This site evinces extraordinarily unpleasant feelings on the part of the sources.

Present activity at the site is quantitatively and qualitatively less than in the past.
