Site is a military compound located in a populated area. On the compound are old concrete buildings. One large, square building is connected by a tunnel to a restricted underground area which may conceal a factory/assembly line (NFI).

Although the site is still functional, there is an 'abandoned' feeling in the sense that, during an earlier period of time, emotions ran very high compared with the present. (Associated with this are ideas of 'resistance', 'confusion', 'unwillingness', and 'rejection of something.'

There are, or were, bodies at the site (NFI).
