SUMMARY OF INFORMATION

The target is a built-up area consisting of many single and two story dwellings (see sketch #1). These structures are wood frame with a material similar to stucco or even adobe surrounding it. The roofs of the structures are steep and slanted. The roofs appeared to be shingled in some cases, but most of them were sheathed in metal (aluminum or corrugated steel). The climate was warm, dry and sunny.

The people associated with the area look Caucasian with no single predominant race characteristics. I kept focusing in on several men in dark suits. These men were all seated with notes or books in their laps. The atmosphere around them was quiet and made me believe that they were men of importance, political or theological. There seemed to be some threat associated with them. That is they were threatened -- although they did not know when, where or how.

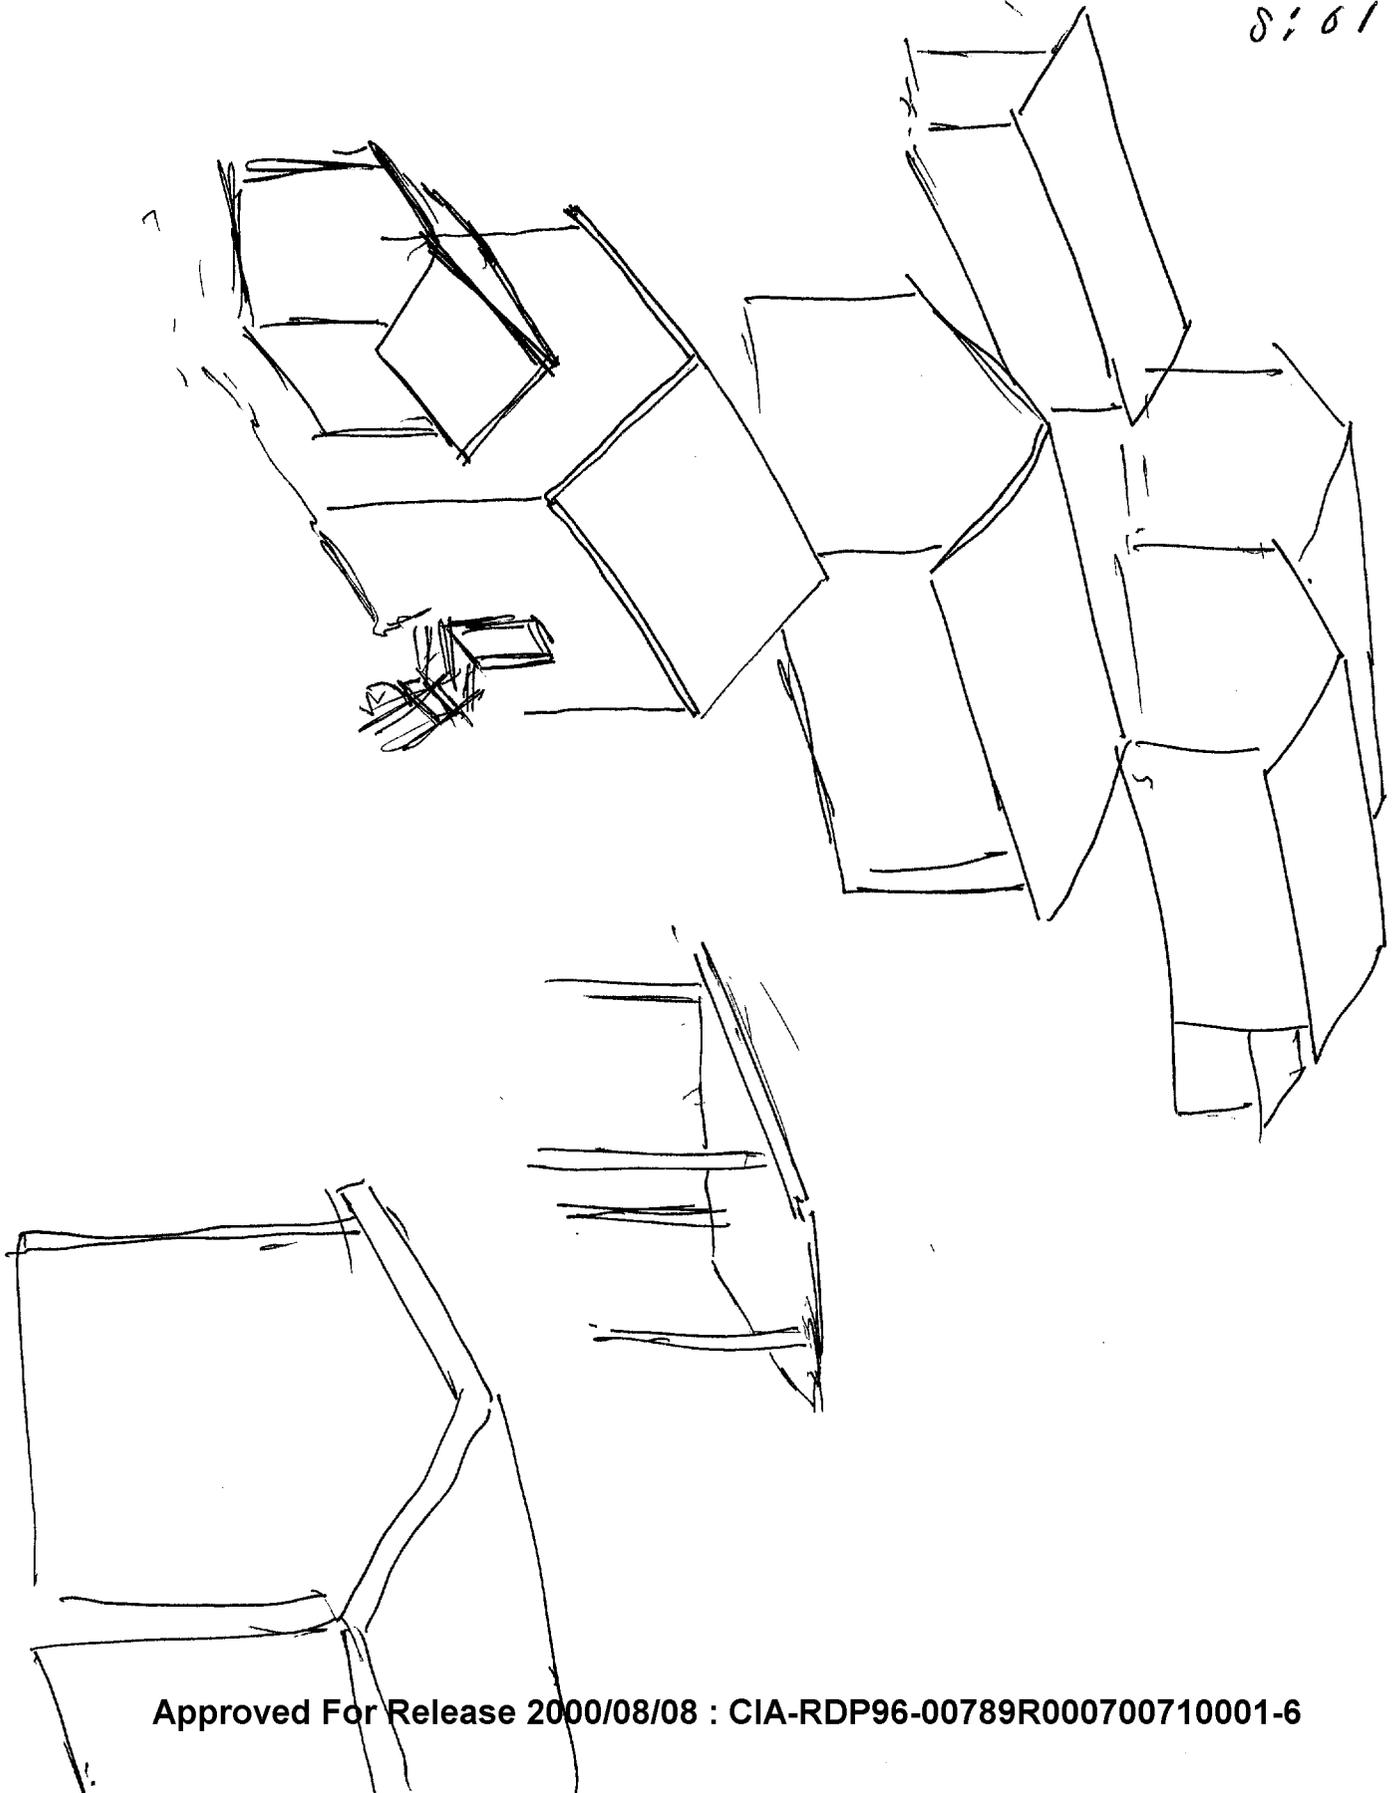

I tried to move forward and determine what the threat was but I just kept coming back to the structures. I kept coming down on the structures.
