SUMMARY OF INFORMATION

The activity involves hearing loud noises and riding. The activity delivered depression as the object excelled. The object is useful, however, there was trouble with the engineering (upward direction). The purpose of the object was to kill, guide, and direct the activity by rising above people. The object itself has metallic panels, can be buoyant, and is constructed through engineering science. An aerial station, gauges, buttons etc.. are affiliated with this object. An overhead view consisted of trees, structures, and people.
