- e. Accomplishments: The only impression for this was that of a hot, glowing (AOL: piece of metal) being formed by the motion of two large "things" squeezing together on it. This may also be allegorical.
- f. Associated personalities: No results (see Comments, below).

4. (S-SS) Comments: This was a very bad session, for no explainable reason. I felt as though I were constantly "bouncing around" the target, never "getting on target". The few times I did get on target, I would immediately be overcome by drowsiness, to the point of almost falling out of the chair. Fighting the target and session finally wound up in my calling the session for Personal Inclemency reasons, without completely addressing all the tasked items. The struggle was actually causing physical pain, and I left the session with a splitting headache.
