23 Apr 87

SUBJECT: Results of SRV for week of 20-24 Apr 87.

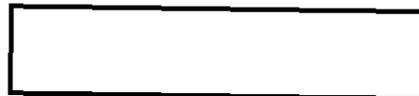

SUMMARY: Two sessions were run, producing the following data:

The first site discovered was a large, elegant indoor place, much like (AOL) the lobby of a grand old hotel. The time frame was definitely during the 1920's or 1930's. There was a person here who was relaxing, smoking a cigarette, while waiting for someone. I queried the signal line about this person, and found him to be the father or grandfather, and the originator of "the problem" (NFI).

The second site visited was specifically cued to be present time, and to be a follow-up of the "previous man". There were no indications in this session that I was RVing a person, but rather a place. The place has sounds of people and machines. There is also music present which has a (AOL) carnival sound to it. The machines are very large and bulky. Nothing further was produced about this site.

RVer's CRITIQUE: The first session was worked while very tired and sleepy, but "felt" good. The second session was worked while more alert, but didn't "feel" as though there was as much contact with the signal line.
