E. SESSION SUMMARY:

The target consists of a large open area where people gather. There is a large, tall object with an angled top which looms over the surrounding area. There is an area of water which is very still and dark colored. In front of a group of people is a large, square structure. There is a smaller group clustered together at a mid way point between the level of the crowd and the top of the structure.

There is an almost religious fervor associated with this event. However, there is something which runs counter to the main purpose of this gathering. It is more of a feeling or presence as if the larger group was being watched by someone or something. There is also an historical significance to this target.
