SG1B

The target [REDACTED] is a small light vessel which has some of the color red with dark lettering. The people aboard are few in number and one may be female. Another crew member is a male who has been injured or is ill. The boat is disguised in purpose perhaps as a fishing vessel or for divers. There are scuba divers aboard who are on the receiving end of a drug drop from either another boat or likely from a plane. The scuba divers aboard the Sabrina pick up crates from the ocean floor near rocks or reefs off the coast and deliver the drugs to a major city port. The crates have contained therein a green flaky substance like marijuana although some cocaine may be involved. These individuals are small time drug receivers or dealers. The connection will be completed in April.
