SUMMARY OF INFORMATION:

The target is located outdoors. There is much green vegetation; bushes, trees etc. It is very quiet here and serene. There is a strong, sharp smell, it seems to pinch my nose. There is a round object that seems to be carried, then thrown on the ground by two men. I seem to be standing on a structure, like a bridge, very high above the ground. When I look down, I can see water rippling, moving, and flowing, like a river. It is so high up, that my ears are popping, like when you are in the mountains. There are people here. They seem to be speaking in a southern accent. This site seems to be something to go see, very natural. There is music here. Colors are blue, green, and yellow. There are solid, straight lines that are made out of wood, possibly a structure of some kind. There is something brown and hard, like a rock on a cliff or mountain. There are many rocks here, some are round, oblong, and others are long, narrow, and pointing up. There is also something that is pouring down the side of the mountain, like a waterfall.

There is another structure in the area that is more like a building. It has large, wide glass windows in the front and the roof is slanted. There are bushes around it. One impression was that it was "a home that is not a home". There is an old woman sitting down in what looks like a wheelchair. She has grey, curly hair and is wearing a red sweater.

There is also something round that is mechanical. It is churning and moving, but I couldn't quite make it out. There are also red and white lights.
