Summary of Information

The target contains a number of seemingly unrelated objects and features (see diagrams). It's overall purpose can not be ascertained but this site is involved with the movement and alteration of an unknown material. This process changes or alters the entire character of the original substance into another substance/material whose makeup is very different. The concept of "entity" is associated with this process.

There are several locations on site which have a hollow, dripping sound associated with them. There is a convoluted object with countless faceted sides which is impossible to sketch.

Elsewhere on site, the concepts of pure, sterile and crystalline apply. The term "isospheric" is also associated with these concepts.

There is a view of a large feature that is trough shaped with a series of superimposed layers. It is reminiscent of a mountain valley. There is also a circular area of ruggedness nearby with sharp, ascending points.
