SUMMARY OF INFORMATION:

TASKING: "Describe activities associated with the target."

RESULTS:

1. First impressions of the site indicated nighttime in a quiet, open place covered in a greyish mist with a very slight motor-oil smell. The site contains at least two manmade objects. One object is large, heavy, cold, solid, and metallic. The other object is hollow, cloth-like, and gives when touched. One person was detected, a black male, lying face down, moving slowly, presumably asleep. No other activity was detected.

2. Moving to a time of "target activity" (unspecified, whether past or future to the other impressions), nighttime was again indicated. A male was detected inside a soft structure which had one open side covered with mesh. As he was talking with other people around him, the group slowly became aware of a growing high-pitched sound which appeared to be coming from the east. A sudden awareness of the meaning and implications of this sound was followed by a frantic surge of activity as a scramble took place for what appeared to be equipment. There was a sudden end to the activity, after which only the grey mist and quietness were once again detected.
