E. SESSION SUMMARY:

----The target appeared as an old building of stone construction surrounded by an old wooden perimeter fence. Other similar buildings were located within the perimeter area. They were used as storage and shelter areas for animals and supplies. The roof of the target building appeared to be a thatched roof made from some form of rough hvegetation. The purpose of the target picture is to depict the survivability of an antiquated way of life in modern day twentieth century. The dominant colors consisted of stone-grey offset by the lush green of the outlying vegetation. Tools and conveyances observed in the area were prominently wooden (wooden pitchforks and animal-drawn wagons).

----People in the area appeared to be red-cheeked farmers that one might associate with old parts of Ireland.

COMMENTS: The presence of stone construction appeared to be the most valid perception of the session.
